TURKS TO SIGN AT SEVRES

City 4 Miles From Versailles, Chosen After Long Search for Place

Signing Will Take Place in Magnificent Building of Famous Porcelain Factory

PARIS, July 26.—Sevres, four miles northwest of Versailles, was chosen for the signing of the Turkish peace treaty after a long search for a place which would give the treaty a sufficiently dignified and historical name, there being already treaties named Versailles, St. Germain, Paris, Grand Trison and Fontainebleau. There remained La Malmaison and the presidential summer residence at Rambouillet. Fontainebleau was considered for a time, but it had been overlooked that there already was a treaty of Fontainebleau which fixed the status of Napoleon and his family after his abdication.

The choice finally was reduced to La Malmaison and Rambouillet, both of which were discarded in favor of Sevres, which is more accessible to Paris.

Signing of the treaty, it is understood, will actually take place in a magnificent building of the famous national porcelain manufactory.

CHARTER COMMISSION WANTS EXPENSES

The Lowell charter commission, through its secretary, Abel R. Campbell, has written to Mayor Perry D. Thompson, asking that an appropriation of $1000 to meet the expenses of the commission, as provided in the resolve which created it, be appropriated by the municipal council.

The mayor will bring the matter up at tomorrow's regular meeting of the council when it is probable an order will be adopted appropriating the sum requested from the general treasury fund.

The commission was also asked that the old councilmanic chamber at city hall be made available for the meetings of the commission which begin Sept. 2. If possible, the commission members would like individual desks. This request will also be considered tomorrow.

BANK ROBBERS TAKE $12,000

Five Masked Men in Daring Holdup at Central Falls, Rhode Island

Bind and Gag Cashier at Point of Guns and Flee in Automobile

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., July 26.—Five men in an automobile drove up to the Credit Union bank immediately after it opened its doors for business today and four of them, armed with revolvers, entered and bound the teller and a woman clerk. They then secured a small safe containing $11,000, which they carried to the waiting automobile and drove away.

There were no other officials or customers in the bank which does most of its business with Notre Dame parishioners. Following the usual custom, most of the deposits received on Saturday were sent to a Pawtucket bank.

Omer Collette, the cashier, said that when the four men entered the bank, one of them asked for $10 in change. When he got it from the safe, they told him to hold up his hands and presented their revolvers. They bound him to a chair and gagged him. They then secured the money, which was made up of $10,000 in currency, $400 in Liberty bonds and $278 in bills and silver, the collection taken at Notre Dame church yesterday, and the remainder in cheques.

While the men were busy in the bank, Miss Loretta St. George, the assistant cashier, arrived and on finding the door locked, went to the side window, and found the front entrance in time to see the four men rush from the building and drive away in the automobile. She afterwards released the cashier.

Antoine Brunelle, on his way to the bank, on business, saw the men rush from the building and drive off. He gave chase but without avail. The automobile in which the bandits escaped was a touring car, but the number attached to it was that of a roadster of a different make, according to the Rhode Island registration.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKET IN POLICE COURT

Michael J. Casey, giving his occupation as steamfitter and address as Cleveland, O., charged with the larceny of $610 from the person of Severin Belanger, was committed for detention in police court this morning under $2000 surety for trial on Aug. 2. Casey pleaded not guilty, and claimed he was ready for trial with no counsel this morning, but the police asked for a continuance.

The alleged theft was made last night about 9 o'clock at the depot near the freight house in the yards in sight of Inspector John A. Walsh, who happened to be posted there at the time and who made the arrest. Mr. Belanger of Royal street was one of a party of about 20 who were bidding goodbye to their friends at the depot. Just as the Montreal train pulled in, Casey, it is alleged, approached the crowd, brushed roughly up against Belanger and then ran down the tracks and jumped into one of the coaches in the same train.

Suspecting the act of Casey, Inspector Walsh gave chase, but instead of following him through the same door of the coach went to the opposite end and caught him as he was about to

Col. Jafar Tayar's Bands Reported to be in Full Retreat

London Hears Greeks Now Hold Adrianople—Lule Bargas Captured

ATHENS, July 26. (By Associated Press).—Colonel Jafar Tayar's bands are in full retreat. From all directions they are falling back toward Kirk-Kilisse, pressed by the Greeks who yesterday took Lule Bargas, southeast of Adrianople.

The Greeks hope to capture Jafar before he reaches the Bulgarian border. One column, with this object in view, is cutting north of Adrianople to the mountain, while another is behind Kirk-Kilisse. It is intended if Jafar is captured, to hold him

WILL CONSIDER OFFER FOR LOWELL JAIL

No action has yet been taken by the county commissioners relative to the disposal of the building and land in Thorndike street, formerly used as the Lowell Jail, but now closed, according to Erson B. Barlow, the Lowell member of the board of commissioners. However, if an offer is made for the building it will be considered, Mr. Barlow says.

There has been a multitude of suggestions relative to the use of the property, ranging from its use as a vocational school to making it an apartment house. One of the most recent suggestions is that the large land area surrounding the building be used as an athletic field. It has been pointed out that the city might take over the property and allow the high brick wall surrounding it to remain and rent the grounds to local baseball teams and other parties, allow them to charge admission and turn over to the city half the receipts.

However, the manner in which the building will be disposed of remains solely in the hands of the three county commissioners. They are the sole authorities having jurisdiction over the property and their attitude at present is one of "watchful waiting." If anyone wants the property and makes a reasonable offer for it, the offer will be given due consideration. Further, that the commissioners have no plans relative to the building's disposal.

DRACUT MILL REOPENS

Big Percentage of Employees at Work in Merrimack Woolen Company's Mill

The Merrimack Woolen Co. mill at Dracut opened today with a large force at work. President E. G. Morrison, when asked how many operatives had returned, said he had not ascertained the exact number, but he had all he needed as it will require a few days to get all the departments again running full blast. Everything was cleaned up during the shutdown of the past few weeks so that a new start will have to be made in all departments. He was pleased to find the operatives return in such large numbers.

The Lowell Amalgamated union, the membership of which includes a large number of the employees of the Merrimack Woolen Co.'s plant, was to have met yesterday afternoon in Odd Fellows' building, but owing to the small number present the meeting was not called. The business which was to have been considered was President Morrison's offer to open the mill today at the rate of wages in force when the shutdown occurred. Some of the employees went back today, evidently pending the formal consideration of the offer at a later meeting.

GOV. COX BUSY ON HIS SPEECH

Locks Himself in His Library to Work on Acceptance Address

Notification to be on Fair Grounds in Dayton, Aug. 7—Gerard Pledges Aid

DAYTON, O., July 26.—Rough drafting of his address accepting the democratic party's nomination for president, was the immediate task today of Gov. Cox, following the notification ceremonies Aug. 7. These, it has been decided, will be at the Montgomery county fair grounds in this city, instead of at Trall's End, the governor's home, in order to accommodate the crowds expected.

Although Gov. Cox had many important features of his address outlined mentally, he had on his desk today formidable piles of data, including many volunteer suggestions, to digest. He planned to lock himself in his library, and, if possible, send his address to the printer by next Friday, when Dayton's "home coming" amenities will be tendered him. A non-partisan civic demonstration is planned as a personal tribute.

The only interruption expected by the governor in the work on his address was a conference, today or tomorrow, with Senator Pomerene of Ohio, a member of the senate political expenditures' investigating committee, regarding continuance of its inquiry. The governor yesterday

HOODLUMISM PREVALENT IN BELVIDERE

So serious has hoodlumism become in the Belvidere section of the city that the park department was forced to transfer the playground activities which have been in operation at the Fayette street school for the past few weeks, to Belvidere park, at the junction of Nesmith and Andover streets. In order that the work may be carried on with a minimum amount of molestation.

Young men living near the Fayette street grounds have torn shutters from the school building, broken windows and injured the playground apparatus. The supervisors were unable to do their work properly and the pleasure of the children who visited the grounds was, of course, interfered with.

The grounds were closed Saturday, the school boarded up, and this morning, apparatus set up in Belvidere park, where it will remain for the rest of the season.

Not only in the Belvidere section but in all parts of the city where playgrounds are located, much damage has been done to basketball up-rights and other apparatus maintained by the park department. Today, Supt. John W. Kernan had three men devote their entire time to repairing broken apparatus and they will probably have to devote tomorrow to the work as well.

PETTIBONE ACCUSED OF MURDER, BREAKS DOWN

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 26.—The usual morning session in the trial of Byron M. Pettibone for the murder of his wife at Bennington, on April 6, was omitted today, but the prosecution was preparing to bring its direct case to a close this afternoon.

Pettibone who was an undertaker's assistant and who the state claims poisoned his wife because of his alleged affection for Miss Helen I. Guilford, a nurse, required a physician at the county jail yesterday. Reaction from the nervous strain of the past week made necessary treatment by a doctor after which the defendant felt considerably better and received relatives and his counsel.

Challenger First to Dash Across the Starting Line in the Fifth and Deciding Contest

START DELAYED UNTIL 1230

Shamrock Gets Jump at Outset—Resolute Follows One Minute Behind

Both Skippers Get off Course in Fight to Gain Advantage of Position

SANDY HOOK, July 26.—Shamrock, IV, the big green sloop with which Sir Thomas Lipton hopes today to lift the America's cup spear across the line today at the start of the fifth international yacht race, which will decide the 1920 series. Today's race was delayed in starting until 1230.

Shortly after noon, the regatta committee signalled the following course for today's race:

A 15-mile run from the Ambrose channel lightship south by west half west, with a 15-mile beat back to the lightship.

Starting on the first 15-mile leg of her 30-mile course, a run south by west, half west out to sea, Shamrock passed over the starting line at the Ambrose channel lightship at 1230.29, official time, and her rival followed at 1231.35, after the starting signal had been sounded at 1230.

Crossing the starting line, Shamrock and her rival broke out big reaching jibs and set their spinnaker booms to starboard.

Shamrock hauled on her wind and headed to the westward in an effort to get by Resolute, which was to weather and killing the Englishman's wind.

Once clear Skipper Burton evidently planned to wear ship and lay his course for the mark. Resolute, however, clung close to Shamrock, which lost ground by the maneuver. At 1237 the two skippers still were fighting their battle off the course. Finally the Englishman headed away slowly for the mark then hauled his wind again and stood in shore.

The match still continued and the skippers got far off their course, each fighting to gain the advantage of position in the run down before the wind. They seemed to maintain about an even sailing speed.

Shamrock Holds Lead

At 1245 the sloops were moving very slowly with Shamrock still on ahead. She had failed, however, to gain on

Resolute since the start. The yachts were nearly two miles to the westward of the course.

Neither skipper cared to give way and both held on their course in shore. After the sloops had clung together as it looked, the Englishman at 1252 began to swing on his course, with the American still to weather preparing to kill his wind once he got on his true course for the mark boat. Apparently Capt. Burton could not get clear with Shamrock and he resumed the luffing, and in a dig for the wind, which was so puffy that it was hard to see how the racers could finish within the six-hour time limit.

Yachts Move Slowly

At 125 p. m., when the yachts had passed Scotland lightship the dark outline of a new wind could be seen to the southwest, far down the Jersey coast. Shamrock had increased her lead slightly, but both yachts were moving very slowly.

In order to gain every slight advantage, Shamrock's crew sat along the lee rail with their legs hanging overboard in order that the big racer might get closer to her best sailing line.

At 123 the race was little more than a drift. Shamrock had ghosted out about three minutes ahead of Resolute, but in point of position it was doubtful if she was any closer the outer mark.

At 135 the yachts were nearly five miles off their course, and within three miles of the beach.

At 141 they finally jibed over and stood along on a southerly course. Shamrock was clear of any wind interference by Resolute.

When the cup contenders finally jibed, shore observers estimated that the green sloop was leading the defender by not more than 200 yards, although observers on the official press boat had the sloops 450 yards apart.

Resolute Passes Shamrock

At 150 Resolute passed Shamrock on the way to the outer mark and was holding a better breeze.

WORK OF THE MATERNITY BENEFIT COMMISSION

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 26.—The maternity benefit commission, among whose workers is Dr. Charles E. Simpson of Lowell, today made a report of the work so far done since it was created by the last legislature. The statement follows:

The work of the special state commission to investigate maternity benefits, created by an act of the Massachusetts legislature June 4, 1920, has progressed to a point where it is possible to indicate to the public the scope of its investigations and the promise of results.

The legislative act, house document 1885, grew out of the year's controversy among the supporters of several bills whose purpose was to provide from the state some system of aid for mothers at childbirth, the object being to lower the rate of maternal mortality and infant mortality. Its foundation is in Governor Coolidge's inaugural address of Jan. 5, in which he recommended "giving aid, nursing and medical care to needy expectant mothers."

The act provided for a commission of five members, three to be the commissioner of public health, the commissioner of public welfare and three persons to be appointed by the governor, one of whom should be a woman and one a physician. The governor appointed Alfred Worcester, M.D., Mrs. Helen A. MacDonald and Edward E. Whiting. There, with Eugene R. Kelley, M.D., commissioner of public health, and Robert W. Kelso, commissioner of public welfare, constitute the commission, with Dr. Worcester as chairman. The commission has appointed Merrill E. Champion, M.D., director of investigations, and Elmer H. Paul, secretary. Quarters are occupied at Room 444 and 445, State House.

The commission held its first meeting June 25, and has held meetings each Tuesday since and will so continue through the summer. It must report by Nov. 15 to the special session of the legislature. It has also held one extra meeting and will hold others. Public hearings are planned for the early fall. A staff of clerks is working night and day shifts at the state house under Secretary Paul's direction collecting and arranging records covering 1919 and 1920 bearing on the question of maternal and infant mortality.

Under Dr. Champion's direction field work is being done with the co-operation of district health officers, visiting nurses and representatives of many organizations. Dr. Mabel Austin Southard of Cambridge and Dr. Carleton W. Bullard of Framingham are aiding the commission with active work.

A questionnaire has been prepared and sent to every physician in the state, seeking both information and opinion. It is hoped to get many valuable suggestions from these.

The commission's purpose is to gather every fact of pertinence, and to report its findings, with such recommendations as they suggest. It is pioneer work. Other countries have laws concerning maternity benefits, but none so specific or carefully contrived as our aimed act in Massachusetts. It is expected that the report of this commission will be the basis for legislation not only in this state but throughout the country, and that it will be studied in other countries.

Between now and November many eminent authorities will appear before the commission, including Dr. Truby King of New Zealand, whose work in New Zealand, Great Britain set a pace in this kind of legislation; and John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation. The authors and sponsors of maternity benefit bills before the Massachusetts legislature will also appear, to present their arguments.

KILLED AT CHURCH DOOR

Masked Men Kill Chief of West Cork Intelligence Department

CORK, Ire., July 26.—(By Associated Press)—Police Sgt. Mulhern, chief of the intelligence department of West Cork, was shot dead today at the door of a church at Bandon, 20 miles southwest of Cork.

He had left the police barracks shortly before in civilian attire and arrived at the porch of the church just as a mass commenced, nearly all of the worshippers already being inside. He paused at the entrance, dipped his fingers in the font and was killed actually making the sign of the cross.

Mulhern's assailants were two masked men hiding on the porch who fired several revolver shots at arm's length and then escaped. Death was instantaneous. All members of the congregation were so horror-stricken that the service was suspended for an hour.

Reid Death List 17

BELFAST, July 26.—There was no firing here Saturday night or yesterday morning and the worst disturbance was some window smashing. The death list as a result of the recent fighting between the Unionists and Sinn Féin factions reached 17 yesterday when two women who were injured Friday in the attack on St. Matthew's convent and a man who was shot Thursday died.

SITUATION IN IRELAND WORST IN 60 YEARS

LONDON, July 26.—Sir Horace Plunkett, founder of the Irish Dominion League and leader of the Moderate Irish National opinion, told a Newcastle audience yesterday that the situation in Ireland is more alarming than it has been within his knowledge of 60 years.

A similar view is reflected by the newspaper of both England and Ireland of all shades of politics. It found expression in all the speeches of Thursday's discussions in the house of commons, even Sir Edward Carson declaring he had never known anything like the state of anarchy prevailing and that "in three-quarters of Ireland, the British government has been entirely beaten.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, warned the country to brace itself against a bitter period in Irish history.

The rioting in Belfast subsided today but there plenty of signs that the lull is only temporary.

Small interest has been excited in Ireland by the tentative proposals attributed to Mr. Lloyd George, regarding dominion home rule with the partition of six Ulster counties. The Associated Press correspondent has seen several politicians of various views and all agree that there is no immediate prospect of a settlement in that direction. Sir Horace and his followers declared their belief that a form of dominion rule for all of Ireland, leaving the Ulster position for adjustment within Ireland, might have a chance, but said the offer must be definite and authoritative. Most members of this section said they believed the quickest way out of the difficulty would be the establishment of a statutory elective convention of all Irishmen with the power to settle their own constitution.

There has been much activity during the past fortnight and Sir Hamar has collected considerable opinion from the moderates, but the Sinn Féin is not committed in any way. The volunteers are regarded as constituting a powerful influence against a compromise. Labor intervening, through Mr. Thomas, is said to be provoking Sinn Féin irritation. The Sinn Féin press says it considers Mr. Thomas merely as Mr. Lloyd George's "billet," acting in the interest of England and pushing forward dominion rule as a "red herring."

Yesterday's Nationalist press resumes its denunciation of Sir Hamar's speech in the house of commons on Thursday.

"Greenwood is the biggest silver Canada ever sent to England," The Irish Independent says.

"Greenwood falls in the part of Cromwell because he has no initiative and has taken orders from Carson."

PLAN BIG RECEPTION FOR PROPOSED DANCE HALL

ROOSEVELT

EASTPORT, Me., July 26.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy and democratic nominee for vice president, said today that he would remain until Friday night at Campobello island, his summer home, just across the line in the province of New Brunswick. He arrived last night from Boston on the destroyer Hatfield.

Mr. Roosevelt will go to Portland for a day when he leaves his summer home. From Portland he will proceed to New York and then to Washington, where he hopes to arrive on Monday next. The nominee said he hoped to return to Maine for the fall campaign. A committee representing residents of this city, many of whom have been acquainted with Mr. Roosevelt since his youth, visited the assistant secretary today to learn his wishes regarding a reception that is being planned in his honor.

LEGIONERS ELECT DELEGATES TODAY

Election of Lowell delegates to attend the state convention of the American Legion at Springfield on Aug. 27-28, will take place today. Polls will be opened this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Community club and balloting will continue until 8:30. Sixteen delegates will be named from the 31 nominees.

The convention is looked upon as one of great importance and it is expected that all members of the local post will be on hand to cast their ballots. A meeting of the post will also be held tonight.

Among the important matters to be taken up at the convention is the Veterans' extra compensation bill, and the measures will be explained in detail at tonight's session.

WITH THE FIREFMEN

Fire apparatus was summoned to Rock street at 8:33, yesterday morning, where an automobile owned by Charles Hanson had caught fire. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

In the afternoon yesterday, at 2:30 o'clock, the firemen were summoned by telephone alarm to the Turner Centre Creamery company in Thorndike street. The fire was caused by a pulley belt creating friction against woodwork. There was no damage.

CONDITION SERIOUS

William Pratt of 43 Franklin street, struck by an automobile Saturday afternoon, is at St. John's hospital in a critical condition, suffering from a fractured skull. The hospital doctors do not expect him to live.

Referred to by Local Pastor as Prospective "Vestibule of Hell"

"I believe dancing is of the devil," said Rev. Edward Babcock during his final sermon before vacation at the First Baptist church last evening. He referred to the proposed dance hall in Pawtucketville as being a prospective "vestibule of hell." He denounced "Sunday baseball" on the common as an entering wedge that would destroy the sanctity of the Sabbath of the Pilgrims and the Puritans. He said that the rights of young people to use the common to secure a breath of fresh air and for purposes of rest and healthful relaxation are now being infringed upon. He asserted that the Sunday baseball project had been fostered and promoted by men who hoped later to profit from making Sunday games a commercial proposition. He said that the number of persons who actually played the game was but a small proportion of the population, and referred to the bringing in of players from outside the city for the reason that their presence was necessary "to get big collections."

The topic of the sermon was "The Biggest Thief in the World." The speaker first referred to two minor thieves. These two, he asserted, were the dance hall and the saloon. He thanked God that the saloon had been banished, but said that there was danger of a worse evil coming in its place if congress should legalize the sale of light beer and wines. He asserted that if there should be such authorization the intoxicating beverages would be sold at every soda fountain and soft-drink stand. The greatest thief of all, the speaker said, was the one that stole the powers of body and mind from the service of God, who had given them, and to whom they belong. Mr. Babcock will spend part of his vacation in Nova Scotia and the rest in central New York. He announced that he would be back in Lowell in time to participate in the prayer meeting service of the church Sept. 3.

The western world first knew about sugar when Indian traders brought to England a substance of amazing sweetness; which the Londoners called "Indian salt."

SATURDAY'S OUTING

WAS "BEST EVER"

Of all the good times enjoyed by the over-seers and second-hands of the Massachusetts cotton mills, by far the best was the outing held Saturday afternoon at the Martin Luther grounds, at Tyngsboro.

The party arrived about two o'clock, in private cars and the company's truck, and shortly the fun started when the married men and single men crossed bats for a "six-inning" game, filled with comedy and errors, Rogers and Lunan featuring this part of the game, and pulling the single men out ahead with a 5-3 score.

Following this, Barnes won the shot put, while Potter came in an easy winner in the fat men's race. Leith and Shields intended to win the three-legged race but got tied to a post and never even started, giving Moody and Stearns first place.

Kearney, Greenhalge, Torpy and Bowen came in for honors in the relay race. Swanson won the 100-yard dash. As a special event, Balcom and Whittier tried to settle a long standing argument as to which had the most speed, by running a race around the base paths. The argument is still unsettled.

After this frivolity, the party sat down to enjoy a clam bake served by Page. Following a few short speeches and the awarding of prizes, Rogers gave an exhibition of club swinging, and the return was made in early evening.

The entire affair was in charge of an entertainment committee composed of Webster, Rogers, McKenzie, Boyle, Rostrom, Shields, Leith and President Potter.

LOWELL RECRUITING

STATION THIRD

In the report for the week ending July 22 the Lowell navy recruiting station stands third in the number of enlistments made by stations in the New England district. Seventeen men were enlisted during the past week at the station in Central street and Chief Joseph Crepeau states that that is an excellent record for the office force in this city. In third position Lowell leads 25 other stations of its district.

Frances Leonard of 79 Springfield street, Andover, was forwarded to Boston this morning as a recruit for the naval service.

Cox Busy on His Speech

saw James W. Gerard of New York, former ambassador to Germany, who promised to campaign vigorously and told the governor that the west was a particularly favorable field.

The League of Nations and other international affairs, including Mr. Gerard's experiences in Germany, were discussed at length with Gov. Cox, and Mr. Gerard said he felt sure the governor's position on the league would be one of the strongest democratic assets.

Gov. Cox indicated today that he might take no action whatever regarding the request of P. P. Christensen, the farmer-labor party's presidential candidate, for aid in securing a pardon for Eugene V. Debs, the socialist candidate. The governor intimated that he regarded improper any suggestion by him to President Wilson in the Debs case.

prisoner for the moral effect on the Turks.

LONDON, July 25.—The Greeks have occupied Adrianople, according to an announcement made in the Athens newspapers Saturday and forwarded to the Exchange Telegraph company.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24. (A. P.)—The Greek forces in Thrace occupied Eski-Baba, the junction point of the Constantinople and Kirk-Killisse railway line, Saturday.

They pushed northward toward Kirk-Killisse and westward along the railway and northward along the highway toward Adrianople. The Turks, offering slight resistance, are fleeing toward Adrianople.

Reports received here say the Greeks were beginning a heavy offensive against Adrianople today. The pleas of Col. Jafar Tatar, the Turkish nationalist commander in Adrianople, for stubborn resistance, apparently are having little effect, the Turks being unwilling to face the Greek artillery, which is displaying good marksmanship.

The Turkish commander at Tchataldjam has telegraphed Col. Jafar Tatar saying the Turkish resistance was feeble against Greek landing parties and asking what to do when the Greeks advance eastward.

Col. Jafar Tatar has declared he will kill himself rather than surrender.

At the present rate of their advance, the Greeks will have Adrianople enveloped in a few days and probably will bombard it from several directions if resistance is offered.

K. OF C. DEFEAT
THE GILLESPIE BOYS

Walter Foye's home run with one man on base in the ninth inning of Saturday afternoon's game between the K. of C. and the Gillespie Mfg. Co. broke up one of the best contests played on the South common in many a month and gave the Knights a hard-earned 7 to 5 victory over the washing machine makers.

The score stood 5-5 in the ninth with everybody set for an overtime squabble. Lynch, the first man up for the Knights, singled, but was caught off first. Toohy got on through an error and then Foye picked out a waist-high ball and sent it whizzing to the further reaches of left and center.

Scoutly pitched for the winners and Smith for the Gillespies. Both men had plenty of stuff on the ball and their support was fairly error-proof. Umpire Lyons handled the indicator well.

ABBOT WORSTED NINE
BEATS H. P. HOOD TEAM

The Abbot Worsted Co. nine of Graniteville kept up its winning streak Saturday afternoon when it defeated the strong H. P. Hood & Sons' team of Boston, 5 to 2, at Abbot park, Graniteville.

The teams were very evenly matched and fought for the game from the drop of the hat. Only six hits were made in the entire contest, testifying to the airtight twisting of Welch for the winners and McWilliams for the losers.

The Abbot outfit won the game in the last half of the ninth on O'Connell's home run.

PRESENTED RESOLUTIONS

Particular Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Honors Humphry O'Sullivan

Members of the Particular council of the St. Vincent de Paul society of this city formally presented to Humphry O'Sullivan, their president, an engrossed set of resolutions commemorative of his recent elevation to the knighthood of St. Gregory the Great at impressive exercises held yesterday morning in O'Connell hall, Suffolk st. About 75 members were present to take part in the observance and to pay homage to the feast day of St. Vincent de Paul. After attending the 5.30 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church, of which Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., was the celebrant, and receiving communion they assembled in O'Connell hall where breakfast was served.

Following the breakfast President O'Sullivan called to order and after speaking on matters pertaining to the council by various members Secretary William H. Gallagher stepped forward and presented Mr. O'Sullivan the council's resolutions. He made an excellent address of presentation and Mr. O'Sullivan responded appreciatively.

Other speakers included James A. McMurray president of the Metropolitan council of the society in Boston, who spoke at length on the wonderful work of Frederick Osenham, who did much to spread the teachings of St. Vincent de Paul and to found the order that today bears his name, C. J. Wise, treasurer of the Metropolitan council, and the officers of the local council.

The Lowell Particular council was founded on May 4, 1915, for the purpose of spreading the practices of Christian life, to assist the poor and to promote religious instruction and charity. Councils have also been formed in each parish in the city. The officers of the Lowell Particular council are: President, Humphry O'Sullivan; vice president, Joseph Marren; clerk, William H. Gallagher; treasurer, Fred H. Bourke; directors, Rev. William O'Brien, I.P.P.; John J. Sullivan, Maurice J. Lambert, Jr., and Fred Rocheville.

Formation of local committees to visit the men in the hospital and care for them after discharge, is urged of the 48 state chairmen who have been enlisted in the movement.

Turks Plan Big Attack on Adana

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—(By Associated Press)—Since July 4, Adana, in the southeast part of Asia Minor, has been in a state of siege. The French have brought tanks into play and hanged many agitators publicly in an effort to restore order. Railway communication has now been re-established between Adana and Mersina, about 40 miles southwest of Adana. There are rumors in Constantinople that the Turks are directing a big movement against Adana.

THAT DANCE HALL

Tomorrow evening is the time fixed for a hearing on the question of licensing a dance hall on Pawtucket boulevard near the public bath house.

From the beginning The Sun has opposed this proposition, believing that the location is unsuitable because of being on the edge of the city with few dwellings in the vicinity and perhaps only the Lowell General hospital to be annoyed by the noise and the musical jazz or jazzical music.

The hospital was located where it is, because few city noises can disturb the rest of the inmates. In the summer time especially, a great many automobiles pass to and fro on the boulevard, and at night when dances are usually held, drivers unacquainted with the dance hall would be liable to run down pedestrians or dancers loitering on the speedway in front of the hall.

But there are other dangers of a different character. Rowdies from other cities passing the boulevard would drop into the dance hall to see what mischief they could work during their stay. Parties of this kind, or even those who belong here, could sell drink from stations in the fields in the vicinity, and it might be made a recruiting station for brothels within a radius of twenty miles of Lowell.

It may be objected that the dance hall would at all times be under the protection of the police; but such supervision deals only with overt acts. Dissolute women can go in there and dance as long as they please without molestation by the police. It may be said that these same objections can be raised with equal truth against every other dance hall in Lowell; but such is not the case. Halls within the thickly settled districts are more under the public eye than a dance hall on the boulevard could possibly be.

The general belief is that we have a sufficient number of dance halls at the present time and that if we are to have any more they should not be located at a place which at present is the favorite resort of parties who wish to escape the vigilance of the police.

Another objection is, that if a dance hall were established so close to the public bath house, many parents would refuse to allow their boys and girls to patronize the baths because of the dangerous allurements of the dance hall. In this way the clean, healthy and morally unobjectionable status of the bath house as conducted today, would be lost or destroyed, and one of our best public park features yet provided by the city of Lowell would be rendered unpopular owing to the location of an objectionable neighbor at its back door.

This is not a question to be decided solely by the people of Pawtucketville. It involves the morals and the reputation of our city and therefore concerns every family in the community.

NEW SHIPPING TARIFF

In the act of congress dealing with the merchant marine, passed a short time before congress adjourned, there is found to be a provision that would restore the old republican policy of high protection which originally banished our merchant marine from the high seas.

The new method, however, is ostensibly used to aid the present merchant marine, but it provides for a combination of ship subsidies and high tariffs, two things which the American people have fought against for generations.

In the opinion of experts this policy if put in operation will bring gigantic fortunes to a few American capitalists—ship owners and protective industries. While the act purports to aid American ships in competing with foreign—a very laudable idea of course—it provides that foreign goods must be brought to our shores in American ships or else pay 10 per cent ad valorem duty.

That policy will increase the price of the goods so imported, and it will cost us the friendship of other nations which we greatly need in the commercial field.

If it is supposed that this law will cause a rush of foreign ships to use American ships, the assumption is wholly unwarranted. Those shippers will do nothing of the kind unless in cases in which they have no ships of their own. It can be seen that a handicap of 10 per cent would go far toward shutting out the goods of such nations as wished to use their own ships. Already there has been much complaint from foreign nations on this point and it is likely that much more will be heard when those nations have recovered sufficiently from the effects of the war to engage more fully in competition for world trade.

The American ship owners will charge higher rates which may in a measure offset this 10 per cent charge to the foreign importer. He can get his goods brought here on European ships at rates much lower than the American, so that the advantage of avoiding the tariff by using American bottoms will be somewhat overcome.

The tariff protects the manufacturer, while gouging the consumer; and it is probable that this new arrangement will operate to our disadvantage in various ways rather than to our benefit. The scheme is new and it is not likely to be changed until its injurious effect shall have been proved in actual operation.

There might be imports received in that way that should pay a much higher tariff than 10 per cent but to place this flat rate on all imports alike would seem to be a very absurd proceeding.

PRES. WOOD'S POLICY

President Wood of the American Woolen Co. has severed the bond of sincere attachment existing between himself and his employees, through his action in shutting down the mills of the American Woolen Co. in Lawrence for an indefinite period.

Just before Pres. Wood was attacked by the government as a profiteer, he was perhaps the most popular man in the United States with his employees and not without cause. He had furnished them free life insurance, had opened stores in which they could purchase the necessities of life at prices lower than those prevailing in the open market; and he had begun to build a new town for their benefit. Those who visit Shawshen Village, will readily see the extensive and very costly plans which Pres. Wood has laid out for the rebuilding of the new town. Already a new post-office, a very fine building indeed, has been constructed in which is a village store, an assembly hall, a magnificent kitchen, suitable for large parties together with business offices for town officials. Just opposite the postoffice is a swimming pool for children, while several playgrounds are also available in the vicinity. Over a dozen new houses have been built on spacious lots, all very attractive and commodious and no two of them of the same design. The streets are wide and already granolithic sidewalks are laid.

Judging from the operations now in progress a million dollars would go but a short way toward completing the work that has been begun. Pres. Wood's residence, a beautiful structure, is located on a knoll on one side of a grand estate abounding in beautiful walks and driveways, groves for picnic parties and sylvan splendors in which art and Nature have worked in harmony for charming effects.

The mill help who cheered President Wood when they found that the charge of profiteering brought against him fell flat, are beginning now to doubt the sincerity of his professed devotion to their interests. There are various opinions on this point, some favorable to Mr. Wood and some the reverse; but the mass of operatives feel the effect of four weeks' idleness and they would not murmur so bitterly if they had any certainty as to the future.

Many regard the shut down as a lockout, but there is no law to compel the company to run its mills; if it decides for reasons of its own, that they shall remain idle. Whatever may be the cause of closing the mills, their idleness has impressed upon the city of Lawrence the important part they have played in the support of a large proportion of her people.

LOWELL'S FIRE LOSS

The annual report for 1919 of the fire commissioner, that has just been issued, shows that during the period covered by the report $232,142 worth of property was burned in Lowell. If one or two single buildings in the business section should be damaged to that extent it would make quite an impression on the public mind. Scattered over a number of buildings, the loss is not so strikingly apparent.

There was a come-back to the owners of the property destroyed of $211,681. This doesn't mean by any means that the loss was within about $20,000 of being cancelled. The labor and materials that must go to replace or repair the structures damaged by fire must come from a tax on the real wealth of the community. The insurance money is simply the repayment in part of the premiums on insurance policies that are paid by property owners every year.

When we come to the causes of the fires we find that "carelessness," "careless use of matches," "children and matches" and "cigarettes" were responsible for 96 of them. Rats and matches started 13 of the blazes; smoking in bed was responsible for 13 others. Hot ashes called the fire department into action 10 times. Some of the other causes of fires, and the number ascribed to each, are given by the fire commissioner as follows: Stove smoking, 9; thawing water pipes, 6; grease on stove, 2; pan of meat, 3.

The saddest feature of the report is that four persons were burned to death in Lowell last year. Three of them were children and two of these lost their lives as a result of playing with matches.

It is not pleasant to contemplate that a large part of this loss of life and property was due to sheer carelessness, but such is the fact.

The republican Portland Express thinks that, if Brother Bryan had become the prohibition candidate for president, it might have made "positive in advance the defeat of Governor Cox and the democratic party." That is something of a compliment to the vote-getting qualities of the Nebraska commoner. But it seems to us he would do more harm to the chances of Senator Harding.

It isn't to be wondered that Mayor Thompson showed lukewarmness in considering the proposal of General John H. Sherburne, state commissioner on the necessities of life, to appoint city employees to engage in a hunt for profiteers in Lowell, since the general has had his forces engaged in a similar search in Boston for some months without conspicuous success.

The city of Northampton has appropriated $1000 to help pay for the noise and splutter of the Coolidge notification day exercises in the city. We cannot help wondering how some of the good democrats who pay taxes look upon this use of public funds to boom the cause of a republican candidate for political office.

The good wishes of many Lowell people will go with Arthur K. Whitcomb as he retires from school teaching, although for some of them mention of his name recalls poignant remembrances not unconnected with an injunction about "not sparing the rod." Mr. Whitcomb was a good schoolmaster and his retirement is a loss to the Lowell schools.

Persons searching for reasons for the high cost of living may find one in the statement that, while the total annual cost of operating the railroads of the country before the war was three billion dollars, under the latest award of the national labor board four billion dollars must be paid out each year for wages.

"The voters of the country now know where Harding stands"—Lawrence Telegram.

Yea, surely. It's on the deck of a political ship, with sails trimmed to catch favoring winds from any point of the compass, with Political Expediency and Wall Street for pilots, and a course shaped for defeat in November.

It is at least interesting to contemplate that before Miss Lillie S. Culler, the Lowell young woman who has just won a prize for leading her class at a Boston law school, finishes her practice at the bar, if she is admitted, there may be women judges to whom she can say, "Your honor, I object."

Calling Senator Harding's acceptance address "an enlightening exhibition of the high and mainly art of shadow boxing" is about the most accurate description of the republican candidate's rhetorical thimble skating feat that has yet appeared.

One of our contemporaries says "Miss Mary Brown is 'at' Cape Cod." When will she land?

SEEN AND HEARD

"Nothing is stronger than custom." There are many "isms" in politics, but the most popular of them is brigandage.

"Never put off until tomorrow what can be done today." It may cost you about $1 more.

If "a fool and his money are soon parted," the profiteer has made a fool of all Americans.

Germany has agreed to supply the allies with two million tons of coal monthly. Just another note to be renewed.

If there is any truth in the saying that women can't keep a secret, why are politicians worrying over who they will vote for?

A woman in Kansas refused to give her age and was not allowed to register. They should be informed that old age won't bar their voting.

A society in England would have people discard clothing and return to nature. All there is needed to accomplish that result with present prices is a little patience.

Perpetual Question
"I desire to be informed at this time, Mr. Chairman," says Squire Abner Harrington, "if the congressional investigating committee has inquired into the campaign expenses of Eugene Victor Debs, who is conducting a 'back porch' campaign for the presidency?"

Which Was Seldom
"Do you regard your recent meeting as a success?" "I do," answered the woman with thin, determined lips; "it was the chairman and nobody could show off and make a speech unless I chose to permit it."—Washington Star.

Algy Was Sure
Algy swaggered into the hotel and entered the telephone booth. He was immaculately clad and in a lordly humor.

"Hallo!" he drawled, putting the receiver to his ear.

A minute passed. He repeated the summons. His lordly humor began to descend in rank.

"Hallo!" he called again.

No response. He grasped the receiver with an iron grip.

"Hallo!"

Still no response. His lordly humor was now gone and he shouted things in the receiver which must have made even that experienced instrument tremble.

At last, when the perspiration streamed from his burning brow and his hat was limp and both he and his language were exhausted a notice caught his eye. It read:

"Give the number you require to the clerk at the desk and wait until the connection is made."

He slunk away so quietly that no one saw him go.

Life in Midsummer
The common housefly (pesterus diabolus) next to the man-eating tiger, is the worst foe of man. By observing the simple rules outlined in this essay, no home should be annoyed by flies. It is well to paper the walls and ceiling of rooms infested with flies with fly paper. Sometimes flies show particular preference for some one chair. In this case have the chair upholstered with fly paper. Children, bless their hearts, can help in the fly battle, too. Arm your junior exterminators with shotguns. In the case of children too young to handle a firearm, give them clubs. A small club, turned from hickory and weighing not more than seven and a half pounds, makes an excellent weapon. Children also can be utilized to poison flies. Give the babies a supply of white arsenic and a funnel. Instruct them to hold the flies firmly, open their mouths and pour in the arsenic. A simple and inexpensive fly trap may be made from two pieces of cloth. The blocks should be cut about two inches square and numbered, one and two. First catch the fly and lay him on block one. Then place block two over block one and press the two together firmly. After a half hour separate the blocks and the fly will be found to have passed over. (Send self-addressed envelope for name of manufacturer.) Skunks are good fly catchers and tame skunk makes a useful as well as highly ornamental home pet. Since it is well known that flies are attracted by the presence of milk and sugar it is well not to use these foods in fly time. Better still—use no food whatever.

More or Less
(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)
One man makes more and one makes less.
But what's the standard for success, since neither reaches happiness?

He who makes more is not content. No matter what his cent per cent. For "more" is more and never meant to teach its own equivalent.

He who makes less feels more denied. A hurt to pocket and in pride is less and less than satisfied.
So let us labor on and bless the labor by our willingness.
To make our service our success.
And well be happy—more or less!

MEAT LODGING IN WINDPIPE FATAL

William Wallace of 45 Branch street died Saturday evening as a result of a piece of meat lodging in his windpipe. When the man returned from his day's work he went to the family ice chest to obtain something to eat. A few moments later his wife, who was seated on the piazza of the home, heard the sound of choking. In the kitchen she found her husband struggling for breath. She hurried him to Lussler's drug store at the corner of Branch and Smith streets where he died shortly after arrival. Life was extinct when the ambulance arrived. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of George W. Healey.

Medical Examiner T. B. Smith later certified that death was due to suffocation.
The deceased leaves a wife, Florence A.; two children, Mrs. William Chase and Lawrence A. Wallace; a brother George; two sisters, Mrs. John Lambrey and Mrs. Edward Ellis, both of Canada.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Lowell polo fans who remember William J. Duggan, for several years a member of the Lawrence polo team, will be interested in the fact that Duggan played the role of a hero in Taunton, one afternoon last week, when he assisted in rescuing a 10-year-old boy from drowning. Duggan was at work at one of the playgrounds in Taunton, on the day in question, when his attention and that of one of the athletic instructors was called to the plight of a young lad who was going down for the third time. Neither of the rescuers had time to remove their clothing before leaping into the river, where the near-fatality was occurring. The boy was given first aid treatment and is now out of danger.

Some years ago, while an international cup race was going on, I was called into a city editor's office and told to hustle up a story about "Sailors' Superstitions." Something had turned up in the news to make such a story timely. The first place I headed for was the captain's cabin on board a Cunard liner. There I met the skipper and also a captain of police. The police official had taken a trip across the ocean from Ireland when a mere lad, but after that his longest sea voyage had been between Boston and Nantasket. He had made a hobby, however, of becoming acquainted with the sea and things connected therewith. There are probably not a great many men living at the time who knew more about sailors and their doings than he did. I could not have struck a better source for material for a story about "Sailors' Superstitions." By sailors, it should be understood, that I mean the kind that are to be found on the deck of the Resolute and, presumably, also on the Shamrock—the kind of which there are not a great many left who sail on wind-propelled craft. It is all right to whistle on shipboard during a calm, for whistling is supposed to bring the wind. Whistling at other times, though, is strictly tabooed. It is believed to be a portent of fire disaster, possibly because the sound of a human whistle and the noise made by the wind whistling through the shrouds in a gale are similar. Another old tradition of the sea that is mixed up with sailors' superstitions is a belief in the transmigration of souls of dead dogs used to, and very likely do today, believe that the souls of great captains and good seamen go into the higher animals after death, while those with whom they are not friendly, become inhabitants of the bodies of monkeys and pigs. I remember seeing an old Newfoundland salt gravely shake hands with a hand organ grinder's monkey on Atlantic avenue in Boston and salute him by the name of a deceased resident of his home town—a strange superstition, surely.

PREACHED HIS FAREWELL SERMON
Rev. Edward S. Woodbury preached his last Sunday sermon at the Worthen Street Baptist church yesterday. He is to leave in the near future to take up the work of a pastor in Minneapolis. Tomorrow evening a reception is to be given him in the church by his parishioners. Friday evening he will address the members of his congregation for the last time.

Mr. Woodbury took for his text yesterday morning the words: "Happy is the man who findeth wisdom." He said that the choice did not exist, as was sometimes supposed, between service of God and complete license and freedom. "It is a choice of masters," he continued. "One must be either the servant of God and humanity or a servant and victim of the devil."

"In the first service," the speaker said, "there is supreme happiness and satisfaction. In the latter every joy is more than counterbalanced by pain and suffering. There are burdens to be borne in leading the Christian life, but they are God-given and God gives the strength to carry them. If we seem to face in the morning a burden that is beyond our strength to bear, we can take it up cheerfully with the assurance that we shall be stronger than we thought."

POULTRY MEN'S TROUBLES WILL BE FEATURE OF FARMERS' WEEK AT AMHERST

The vanishing poultry industry has received a good deal of attention at the hands of farm writers in Massachusetts. It will be given further attention during Farmers' week at the Agricultural college, which is being held coincident with the meetings of the Massachusetts Poultry association's summer convention in Amherst, beginning today and continuing till July 30.

Some of the problems of the poultry men, which have so abundantly increased in the last two or three years with the growing scarcity of cheap labor and the rapid rise in the price of poultry feed, will be thrashed out in these meetings of practical poultry men. The commercial possibilities of poultry raising will be discussed by growers who have made a success by catering to the fancy chicken and egg markets of the consuming centres. Fruit as a side line for poultrymen will be considered by fruit specialists. It is a line many poultry men of eastern Massachusetts have already adopted either with or instead of their hens. Modern poultry methods of fighting poultry diseases will be given a prominent place on the program. A chicken supper on Thursday night, July 29, is a feature kept exclusively for the poultrymen and their guests.

The Agricultural college is preparing to entertain a large number of poultry men of the eastern half of the state during the Farmers' week period. Its home economics department has also a program of home-making demonstrations, including a motor trip to model kitchens in the vicinity of Amherst, to which all housewives of the state are invited. The big women's day features come Friday, July 30, but problems of the home, flowers, clothes and preserving will be discussed earlier in the week. Farmers' week programs may be obtained by mail from the Extension Service, Amherst.

Cuba's exports in 1915 were twice as great in value as the combined exports of the countries between the Texas border and South America.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Now we shall have to see what had become of poor Mr. Tingaling, for, as you know, he had disappeared mysteriously from Oliver Oriole's house while Oliver was doing over the fairy-man's suit.

This is what happened. Nick and Nancy were helping Oliver to snip threads and so on, while Oliver awoke, and Mr. Tingaling (not having any clothes to wear in the meantime) was in bed having a nap in the spare room, and Mrs. Oriole was making pies in the kitchen—when all at once an extra big breeze came along and gave the Oriole apartment in Maple-Tree Flats such a swing that Tingaling woke up with a start.

He didn't know just where he was, waking so quickly 'n all, and he blinked his eyes and jumped out of bed and rushed for the spare room door to see where the earthquake was coming on and on to the front door and stepped outside before he saw exactly what he was doing.

Oliver Oriole's nest-apartment, I mean—was at the end of a very slim branch, even slim for a fairy to tread on, a thin fairy and Tingaling was a fat one, and one had to watch like anything not to slip when he was going to or from Oliver's dwelling place.

Before Tingaling could say "Boo," down he went sprawling to the soft ground below. He wasn't hurt much, but he was in his nightg!

Enough Pledges to Ratify Suffrage

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 26.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the American National Woman Suffrage association, announced here tonight that sufficient pledges had been obtained by her organization and other suffrage leagues to secure ratification of the federal suffrage amendment by the special session of the Tennessee legislature, which Governor Roberts has announced he will call for Aug. 9.

MAURICE AND HIS DANCING PARTNER, LEONORA HUGHES, GIVE DANCE DEMONSTRATIONS

ON WITH THE DANCE

Maurice Tells What Dances Are Worth While

BY MAURICE
World's Most Famous Ballroom Dancer

LONDON, England, July 26.—There are four dances that are worth-while in a ballroom. They are the fox-trot, the one-step, the waltz and the tango. The first three are especially adapted for American and English people. The great advantage of the fox-trot, one-step and waltz is their simplicity and their grace when they are properly done. Their great merit is that they are easily taught and easily learned. They are dances of three or four steps which everyone can do and which result in a general symmetry of movement.

Oppose Simplicity
Do you know who it is that is opposed to these dances? It is the person who is responsible for the ugly fashions in dancing. It is the person who brought in the high kick, the "bunny-hug," the shimmy, shake and all the other endless foolish extractions and contortions, each given a name as foolish as the thing it indicates. Beautiful dancing can never be brought about this way. It may develop acrobats and contortionists, but not dancers. What are people aiming at who are teaching these freak things? Do they imagine there is something risqué in the fox-trot and the one-step? Is that why they are trying always to introduce something more elaborate and intricate in form? If so, I could easily convince an unprejudiced jury that a minuet or a schottische could be made to bear an undesirable interpretation. My own thought is that the constant introduction of freak things in dancing is due to a certain kind of dancing teacher who thinks he can make more money if he continually has some "new steps" that his pupils simply must learn. If that is the idea, it is absolutely unfair. Why should a girl or boy of modest means, who has spent money to learn current dancing, have to pay a good deal more to keep abreast of unnecessary, unexpected and unlabeled innovations? What we need is not these senseless changes, but improvement and above all standardization of ballroom dancing, together with elimination of certain faults and peculiarities.

Adopt Resolutions

It may interest my American friends to know that I advocated this program recently at a great meeting of English dancing teachers. If I may say so without undue egotism, one of the results of my talk and of my dance demonstrations with Miss Leonora Hughes was the adoption of two resolutions. Under the one, the teachers present agreed to do their best to stamp out freak steps in the ballroom, particularly dips and steps in which the feet are raised high off the ground, and also sidesteps and pauses which interfere with the progress of couples who may be following. The other resolution provided for a committee whose task it should be to consider what should be recognized as the standard steps in the various ballroom dances.

HORRORS OF STARVATION

Sun Staff Writer Tells How Men Prowl With Dogs for Food

Correspondent J. Herbert Duckworth entered Soviet Russia without a permit and travelled independently all over the land of the Bolsheviks—not on a Lenin tour. Lenin finally failed him and deported him to Esthonia—but he had his facts and he is now writing the truth about Russia today for readers of the Sun. Watch for more of Duckworth's articles.

BY J. H. DUCKWORTH,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

REVAL, Esthonia, July 26.—The horrors of starvation I saw in Moscow will be forever indelibly stamped on my memory.

I have seen big men in the prime of life prowling with dogs, alongside our waiting Red Cross trains at Sovetskoy station picking up and eating dirty scraps of food that had been thrown from the windows.

I have seen the women, who came to tell milk to the interned Polish families at the station, dive into a tub of swill (saved for pigs) and fish out and devour ravenously potato peelings and pieces of rotten bread. I have given a Red soldier bread, the first food he had tasted for two days.

Bread, just bread, is all that Moscow thinks about. I know that wherever he goes, a man in Moscow carries with him his bread ration; it is not safe to leave it even at home.

I was told by a member of the British labor delegation, an apologist for the Bolsheviks, that the communists had a wonderfully efficient system of distributing the food; that while Moscow needs 40 carloads of food a day and only gets 35, every worker gets his fair share. This man, like certain other favored foreign visitors, must have been shown only the bright side, if there be one, of communism as it works in Russia.

I was able to see and study the other side of the picture—to learn that probably 50 per cent. of the people are bitterly opposed to Bolshevism, and are hoping and praying for "something to happen."

One day I went scouting for food in a street market on Karelni Sadova. The food which finds its way to these markets has escaped the vigilance of the extraordinary food requisitioning gangs on duty on the roads and railways leading into Moscow. Clothing, furniture and other household goods are sold by starving people whose wages are anything up to 3600 rubles a month. It is impossible, even with a worker's rations, to keep body and soul together under less than 30,000 rubles a month.

Karelni Sadova is a wide street. The hawkers line up in two rows, facing each other in the middle of the road. The public passes up and down between them. In order to be able to make a quick getaway at the

HOME FOR BACHELORS SAFE FROM WOMEN

BY LORRY A. JACOBS.

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent
NEWARK, N. J., July 26.—Bachelors! Front to New Jersey!

If you are an unmarried man, 60 years of age, respectable, and once had means of a sort, you had best hie to N. J., take up residence there for ten years and then enjoy a meal ticket for the rest of your life.

It reads like fiction. But the will of the late Marcus L. Ward, millionaire son of Marcus L. Ward, Civil war governor of New Jersey, has provided $3,000,000 for a home for "respectable and aged bachelors."

The bequest has excited no end of comment among wealthy folk of Newark who knew Ward, and a hidden romance is even hinted. John O. H. Pitney, probably Ward's best friend, declared he knew of no romance and added that, while Ward was not embittered against women, he didn't seem to care much for the fairer sex.

As to this, Samuel Billings, colored coachman in the Ward family for 30 years, probably knows best. He says:

"Mistah Ward was sure 'fraid o' women, suh. He sho wuz! When dey built de Y.W.C.A. next do' to us, he sez to me, 'Dey's too many women roun' heah. Us is gwine to move!' An' us did! We moves to the club and we lived dah ever after."

Close to $500,000 of the Ward fortune was left to charity, almost every one in Newark being remembered except the Y.W.C.A.

Dealing with the bachelors' home, the will reads:

"The main object of this corporation is to provide for the proper support and suitable maintenance of such respectable and aged white bachelors, not less than 60 years of age, and bona fide residents of New Jersey for at least ten years, preceding admission."

as they have lost the means which they once had for their own support."

U. S. and Canada Co-operate to Breed Huge Herds for Venison

BY LEE J. SMITS
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash., July 26.—"And don't forget to bring home a good reindeer roast for Sunday dinner."

This will be a familiar domestic order before long.

The governments of the United States and Canada are promoting, on reared, half turned, staggered a few yards and fell dead in less than ten seconds. The cubs ran off.

At that very instant an enormous male grizzly appeared on the scene. With deep guttural growls, he ramped up and down across the shrouded background some 60 yards distant. We shot five arrows one after the other at his dim fleeting form. Then he disappeared at a gallop.

Cautiously we came out of our blind, skinned and measured our female specimen. She weighed 500 pounds and was a beautiful patrician of the species. My arrow had cut a rib in two and lay buried deep in her heart cavity. Death was instantaneous. Later we trailed and found our little cubs.

Then we went to pick up the arrows we had shot at the big old fellow, and were feeling very blue that we had missed him. But one arrow could not be found. We trailed the bear and discovered blood. We went farther and found pools of blood; then half of Young's arrow lay on the ground bean extensive scale, the propagation in sub-Arctic America of reindeer herds which, in a few years are expected to rank with sheep and cattle as a source of meat supply.

Dr. Edward W. Nelson, chief of the bureau of biological survey of the department of agriculture, is on his way to Alaska, with a staff of naturalists, to make a survey of the 110 reindeer herds, numbering about 200,000 animals, with a view to placing reindeer raising on a commercial ba-

Thus far the reindeer has been chiefly useful in saving the Eskimo from extinction before the white man's invasion of the ancient hunting grounds. "The government is undertaking to transform a hunting people into a pastoral people," is the way William T. fore us. It had gone clear through the beast.

We knew we had him now. We trilled farther and saw the feathered half of the shaft. The bear had drawn it out with his teeth.

Then here were wallows dug in the soft earth where he had lain down. Then all signs disappeared. After much patient tracking we at last came upon him over the edge of a cliff, dead as Caesar. He was enormous; a magnificent animal, with tremendous head and claws, weighing 1000 pounds.

One arrow had gone 26 inches, clean through his lungs, and killed him. We skinned him by firelight on the steep canyon side. His pelt weighed 150 pounds.

Having gathered and salted our hides, we shipped them to the museum, where they will be mounted in one of the most unique bear groups in the world. They represent the last of the grizzly and have the distinction of having been killed with that time-honored and romantic old weapon, the bow and arrow.

Lopp, superintendent of the Alaska school service, puts it. "Twenty-eight years ago 1200 reindeer were introduced from Siberia. Herds are maintained in connection with most of the 65 native schools and the young Eskimo are given a four-year apprenticeship in the care of the herds, and are given deer of their own so that they can become independent."

From this purely altruistic movement, the reindeer industry has grown until it promises to spread over thousands of square miles of territory, hitherto a wilderness. The Hudson Bay company, backed by the dominion government, has obtained the use of the southern half of Baffin Land and has engaged Stevansson, the explorer, to promote reindeer raising.

Costs Only $2 a Year

One of the purposes of the biological survey's activities in Alaska will be to improve the type of reindeer by crossing with the wild caribou. A reindeer yields about 150 pounds of meat. Dr. Nelson believes that this weight can be almost doubled by judicious breeding.

Reindeer feed on wild herbage during the summer and their winter mainstay is the reindeer moss covering the tundra. The present cost of maintaining a reindeer, according to figures of the Alaska school service, is about $2 a year. It is expected to cut this cost in half.

More than half of the reindeer in Alaska are now owned by Eskimo. Herds increase 20 per cent. or more a year after the animals killed for meat and those lost by straying or natural enemies are counted out.

Reindeer venison has already been marketed in the United States and is pronounced superior to beef or mutton in flavor. Two freezing plants are being established in Alaska and regular shipments are promised in the future.

"Your qualities surpass you charms," is the message the sweet-scented mignonette sends you. The origin of this meaning is found in a story told of Count of Walstein, of Saxony, who was engaged to Amelia von Nordbough, a beautiful but frivolous and coquettish woman. Charlotte, her cousin, who was poor and plain, had been brought up with her.

Chose Mignonne
One evening at a party, it was suggested that each lady choose a flower, and the recipient of it write a appropriate verse. Amélie, who has died devotedly all evening with rather dashing but disreputable officer, chose a rose, while Charlotte's choice was a magnolia. Desirous of recalling Amélie to a sense of propriety, she asked the count what verse he had prepared for the rose. The count saw through this affectionate ruse and wrote: "Its life is granted for a day, its pleasures but a moment stay." To Charlotte he handed this line about the mignonette: "qualities surpass his charms." A year later he married Charlotte, and added a sprig of mignonette to his coat-arms.

Meaning of Name
To the ancients this flower was known as reseda, which means to urge. It was used as a sedative for pain and for reducing swelling and inflammation.

The flower was introduced to southern France from Egypt about the eighteenth century. It became popular and was known as mignonne, which signifies a little darling. The flower is widely cultivated in France because of the fragrant

BOSTON, July 26.—A bar was placed today on the rush of people to give their money to Charles Ponzi, head of the Securities Exchange Co., on his promise to repay their investment with 50 per cent. profit in 45 days.

After a conference with Dist. Atty. Pelletier, Ponzi, whose business is described as the exchanging of international reply coupons from one country to another, agreed to accept no further deposits until an auditor selected by the district attorney has examined his accounts, which are said to run into millions. Hundreds of persons were turned away with their money in their hands after Ponzi issued the order to his office force.

The Lowell charter commission, through its secretary, Abel R. Campbell, has written to Mayor Perry D. Thompson, asking that an appropriation of $1000 to meet the expenses of the commission, as provided in the resolve which created it, be appropriated by the municipal council.

The mayor will bring the matter up at tomorrow's regular meeting of the council when it is probable an order will be adopted appropriating the sum requested from the general treasury fund.

The commission was also asked that the old councilmanic chamber at city hall be made available for the meetings of the commission which begin Sept. 8. If possible, the commission members would like individual desks. This request will also be considered tomorrow.

BANK ROBBERS TAKE $12,000

Bind and Gag Cashier at Point of Guns and Flee in Automobile

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., July 26.—Five men in an automobile drove up to the Credit Union bank immediately after it opened its doors for business today and four of them, armed with revolvers, entered and bound the teller and a woman clerk. They then secured a small safe containing $12,000, which they carried to the waiting automobile and drove away.

There were no other officials or customers in the bank which does most of its business with Notre Dame parishioners. Following the usual custom, most of the deposits received on Saturday were sent to a Pawtucket bank.

Omer Collette, the cashier, said that when the four men entered the bank, one of them asked for $10 in change. When he got it from the safe, they told him to hold up his hands and presented their revolvers. They bound him to a chair and gagged him. They then secured the money, which was made up of $10,000 in currency, $100 in Liberty bonds and $275 in bills and silver, the collection taken at Notre Dame church yesterday, and the remainder in cheques.

While the men were busy in the bank, Miss Loretta St. George, the assistant cashier, arrived and on finding the door locked, went to a window, and found the curtain drawn. She returned to the front entrance in time to see the four men rush from the building and drive away in the automobile. She afterwards released the cashier.

Antoine Brunelle, on his way to the bank on business, saw the men rush from the building and drive off. He gave chase but without avail. The automobile in which the bandits escaped was a touring car, but the number attached to it was that of a roadster of a different make, according to the Rhode Island registration.

WILL CONSIDER OFFER FOR LOWELL JAIL

No action has yet been taken by the county commissioners relative to the disposal of the building and land in Thorndike street, formerly used as the Lowell jail, but now closed, according to Erson B. Barlow, the Lowell member of the board of commissioners. However, if an offer is made for the building it will be considered, Mr. Barlow says.

There has been a multitude of suggestions relative to the use of the property, ranging from its use as a vocational school to making it an apartment house. One of the most recent suggestions is that the large area surrounding the building be used as an athletic field. It has been pointed out that the city might take over the land, allow the high brick wall surrounding it to remain and rent the grounds to local baseball teams and other parties, allow them to charge admission and turn over to the city half the receipts.

However, the manner in which the building will be disposed of remains solely in the hands of the three county commissioners. They are the sole authorities having jurisdiction over the property and their attitude at present is one of "watchful waiting." If anybody wants the property and makes a reasonable offer for it, the offer will be given due consideration. Further than that the commissioners have no plans relative to the building's disposal.

The Merrimack Woolen Co. mill at Dracut opened today with a large force at work. President B. G. Morrison, when asked how many operatives had returned, said he had not ascertained the exact number, but he had all he needed as it will require a few days to get all the departments again running full blast. Everything was cleaned up during the shutdown of the past few weeks so that a new start will have to be made in all departments. He was pleased to find the operatives return in such large numbers.

The Lowell Amalgamated union, the membership of which includes a large number of the employees of the Merrimack Woolen Co's plant, was to have met yesterday afternoon in Old Potlows' building, but owing to the small number present the meeting was not called. Michael J. The alleged theft was made last night about 9 o'clock at the depot near the freight house in the yards in sight of Inspector John A. Just as the Montreal train pulled in, Casey, it is alleged, approached the crowd, brushed roughly up against Belanger and then ran down the tracks and jumped into one of the coaches in the same train.

DAYTON, O., July 26.—Rough drafting of his address accepting the democratic party's nomination for president, was the immediate task today of Gov. Cox, following completion of major plans for the notification ceremonies Aug. 7. These, it has been decided, will be at the Montgomery county fair grounds in this city, instead of at 'Trail's End, the governor's home, in order to accommodate crowds expected.

Although Gov. Cox had many important features of his address outlined mentally, he had on his desk today formidable piles of data, including many volunteer suggestions, to digest. He planned to lock himself in his library, and, if possible, send his address to the printer by next Friday, when Dayton's "home coming" amenities will be tendered him. A non-partisan civic demonstration is planned as a personal tribute.

The only interruption expected by the governor in the work on his address was a conference, today or tomorrow, with Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, a member of the senate political expenditures' investigating committee, regarding continuance of its inquiry. The governor yesterday

MAY ELECT SUCCESSOR TO MR. WHITCOMB

The school committee will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow evening and it is possible that a successor to Arthur K. Whitcomb, master of the Greenhedge school, who has tendered his resignation, will be named.

John F. McGlinchey of 81 Manchester street, a graduate of Boston college, is an avowed candidate for the position, while the name of Martin E. Connors of 61 Bellevue street, also a graduate of Boston college, has likewise been mentioned in connection with the position.

The Merrimack Woolen Co. mill at Dracut opened today with a large force at work. President B. G. Morrison, when asked how many operatives had returned, said he had not ascertained the exact number, but he had all he needed as it will require a few days to get all the departments again running full blast. Everything was cleaned up during the shutdown of the past few weeks so that a new start will have to be made in all departments. He was pleased to find the operatives return in such large numbers.

The Lowell Amalgamated union, the membership of which includes a large number of the employees of the Merrimack Woolen Co's plant, was to have met yesterday afternoon in Old Potlows' building, but owing to the small number present the meeting was not called. ## TAXI DRIVER SHOT DEAD IN BELFAST

BELFAST, July 26.—The week-end having passed in comparative quiet here, the feeling prevailed today that the troubles caused by clashes between the Unionists and Sinn Fein factions were over for the time being. Further confidence in the maintenance of continued quietude was given by the action of local organizations in Belfast and other towns in forming volunteer patrols to assist the police, and by the fact that the population in general was displaying no sympathy with the disorderly element.

David Dunbar, a taxicab driver, was shot dead this morning in Northumberland street for failing to answer a military challenge. He had driven almost to the barbed wire before the military fired.

At attempt was made yesterday to burn the little Methodist church at Crossmaglen, south of Armagh, in retaliation, it is supposed, for occurrences in Belfast. The windows of the structure were torn out and two of the doors were charred by the flames.

TODAY'S WINNER TAKES THE CUP

Lack of Wind, However May Prevent Finish Within Time Limit

Shamrock First to Dash Over Starting Line—Yachts Far Off Course

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 26.—At 3 o'clock today, two hours and a half after the start of the fifth and final race of 1920 for the America's cup, Resolute was leading Shamrock by about three-quarters of a mile on a beat to the outer mark of a 30-mile windward and leeward course.

Today's race was delayed in starting until 12.30.

Shortly after noon, the regatta committee signalled the following course for today's race:

A 15-mile run from the Ambrose channel lightship south by west half west, with a 15-mile beat back to the lightship.

Starting on the first 15-mile leg of her 30-mile course, a run south by west, half west out to sea, Shamrock passed over the starting line at 12.30.20, official time, and her rival followed at 12.31.35, after the starting signal had been sounded at 12.30.

Crossing the starting line, Shamrock and her rival broke out big reaching jibs and set their spinnaker booms to starboard.

Shamrock hauled on her wind and headed to the westward in an effort to get by Resolute, which was to weather and killing the Englishman's wind.

Once clear Skipper Burton evidently planned to wear ship and lay his course for the mark. Resolute, however, clung close to Shamrock, which lost ground by the maneuver. At 12.37 the two skippers still were fighting their battle off the course.

Finally the Englishman headed away slowly for the mark then hauled his wind again and stood in shore.

Skippers Fight for Position

The match still continued and the skippers got far off their course, each fighting to gain the advantage of position in the run down before the wind. They seemed to maintain about an even sailing speed.

Shamrock Holds Lead

At 12.45 the sloops were moving very slowly with Shamrock still out ahead. She had failed, however, to gain on Resolute since the start. The yachts

COOLIDGE MOWS LAWN

Helps Wife Cook Doughnuts in Preparation for Notification Exercises

NORTHAMPTON, July 26.—Governor Coolidge remained in practical seclusion today in preparation for the exercises tomorrow at which he will formally be notified of his nomination as the republican candidate for vice president. He arose early after his quiet and unexpectedly early return last night from a vacation spent at the boyhood farm at Plymouth, Vt., and assisted Mrs. Coolidge in placing the modest home, which he rents for $32 a month in readiness for the luncheon for national committeemen and other prominent guests tomorrow.

One of his first acts was to go out, collarless and coatless with suspenders over an old fashioned "bolled" shirt, and mow the lawn. Later he assisted Mrs. Coolidge in cooking a "batch of doughnuts" for the guests tomorrow.

Governor and Mrs. Coolidge will stay at a hotel tonight as the five rooms in their house have already been given over to tables and chairs for the luncheon.

Among the early arrivals today were J. Henry Roraback, of Connecticut, chairman of the notification committee; J. B. Reynolds, former secretary of the republican national committee and at present Governor Coolidge's personal representative, and Frank W. Stearns, an Amherst college alumni friend who has been active in promoting the governor's political career.

WORK OF THE MATERNITY BENEFIT COMMISSION

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 26.—The maternity benefit commission, among whose workers is Dr. Charles E. Simpson of Lowell, today made a report of the work so far done since it was created by the last legislature. The statement follows:

The work of the special state commission to investigate maternity benefits, created by an act of the Massachusetts legislature June 4, 1920, has progressed to a point where it is possible to indicate to the public the scope of its investigations and the promise of results.

The legislative act, house document 1905, grew out of the year's controversy among the supporters of several bills whose purpose was to provide from the state some system of aid for mothers at childbirth, the object being to lower the rate of maternal mortality and infant mortality. Its foundation is in Governor Coolidge's inaugural address of Jan. 8, in which he recommended "giving aid, nursing, and medical care to needy expectant mothers."

The act provided for a commission of five members, three to be the commissioners of public health, the commissioner of public welfare and three persons to be appointed by the governor, one of whom should be a woman and one a physician. The governor appointed Alfred Worcester, M.D., Mrs. Helen A. Macdonald and Edward E. Whiting. These, with Eugene R. Kelley, M.D., commissioner of public health, and Robert W. Kelso, commissioner of public welfare, constitute the commission, with Dr. Worcester as chairman. The commission has appointed Merrill E. Champion, M.D., director of investigations, and Eliot H. Paul, secretary. Quarters are occupied at Room 414 and 415, State House.

The commission held its first meeting June 25, and has held meetings each Tuesday since and will so continue through the summer. It must report by Nov. 15 to the special session of the legislature. It has also held one extra meeting and will hold others. Public hearings are planned for the early fall. A staff of clerks is working night and day shifts at the state house under Secretary Paul's direction collecting and arranging records covering 1915 and 1920 bearing on the question of maternal and infant mortality.

Under Dr. Champion's direction field work is being done with the co-operation of district health officers, visiting nurses and representatives of many organizations. Dr. Abel Austin Southard of Cambridge and Dr. Carleton W. Bullard of Framingham are aiding the commission with active work.

A questionnaire has been prepared and sent to every physician in the state, seeking both information and opinion. It is hoped to get many valuable suggestions from these.

The commission's purpose is to gather every fact of pertinence, and to report its findings, with such recommendations as they suggest. It is pioneer work. Other countries have laws concerning maternity benefits, but none so specific or carefully contrived as our aimed act in Massachusetts. It is expected that the report of this commission will be the basis for legislation not only in this state but throughout the country, and that it will be studied in other countries.

Between now and November many eminent authorities will appear before the commission, including Dr. Truby King of New Zealand, whose work in New Zealand, Great Britain set a pace in this kind of legislation; and John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation. The authors and sponsors of maternity benefit bills before the Massachusetts legislature will also appear, to present their arguments.

KILLED AT CHURCH DOOR

Masked Men Kill Chief of West Cork Intelligence Department

CORK, Ire., July 26.—(By Associated Press)—Police Sergt. Mulhern, chief of the intelligence department of West Cork, was shot dead today at the door of a church at Bandon, 20 miles southwest of Cork.

He had left the police barracks shortly before in civilian attire and arrived at the porch of the church just as a mass commenced, nearly all of the worshippers already being inside. He paused at the entrance, dipped his fingers in the font and was killed actually making the sign of the cross.

Mulhern's assailants were two masked men hiding on the porch who fired several revolver shots at arm's length and then escaped. Death was instantaneous. All members of the congregation were so horror-stricken that the service was suspended for an hour.

Blow Death List 17

BELFAST, July 26.—There was no bring here Saturday night or yesterday morning and the worst disturbance was some window smashing. The death list as a result of the recent fighting between the Unionists and Sinn Féin factions reached 17 yesterday when two women who were injured Friday in the attack on St. Matthew's convent and a man who was shot Thursday died.

SITUATION IN IRELAND WORST IN 60 YEARS

LONDON, July 26.—Sir Horace Plunkett, founder of the Irish Dominion League and leader of the Moderate Irish National opinion, told a Newcastle audience yesterday that the situation in Ireland is more alarming than it has been within his knowledge of 60 years.

A similar view is reflected by the newspaper of both England and Ireland of all shades of politics. It found expression in all the speeches of Thursday's discussions in the house of commons, even Sir Edward Carson declaring he had never known anything like the state of anarchy prevailing and that "in three-quarters of Ireland, the British government has been entirely beaten.

Sir Mamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, warned the country to brace itself against a bitter period in Irish history.

The rioting in Belfast subsided today but there plenty of signs that the full is only temporary.

Small interest has been excited in Ireland by the tentative proposals attributed to Mr. Lloyd George, regarding dominion home rule with the partition of six Ulster counties. The Associated Press correspondent has seen several politicians of various views and all agree that there is no immediate prospect of a settlement in that direction. Sir Horace and his followers declared their belief that a form of dominion rule for all of Ireland, leaving the Ulster position for adjustment within Ireland, might have a chance, but said the offer must be definite and authoritative. Most members of this section said they believed the quickest way out of the difficulty would be the establishment of a statutory elective convention of all Irishmen with the power to settle their own constitution.

There has been much activity during the past fortnight and Sir Mamar has collected considerable opinion from the moderates, but the Sinn Féin is not committed in any way. The volunteers are regarded as constituting a powerful influence against a compromise. Labor intervening, through Mr. Thomas, is said to be provoking Sinn Féin irritation. The Sinn Féin press says it considers Mr. Thomas merely as Mr. Lloyd George's "bonnet," acting in the interest of England and pushing forward dominion rule as a "red herring."

Yesterday's Nationalist press resumes its denunciation of Sir Mamar's speech in the house of commons on Thursday.

The Freeman's Journal says: "Greenwood is the biggest bluffer Canada ever sent to England."

The Irish Independent says: "Greenwood falls in the part of Cromwell because he has no initiative and has taken orders from Carson."

MOTORCYCLE HIT FENCE

Early last evening, a motorcycle operated by Max Newcity of 179 Middlesex street, crashed into a fence at the corner of High and Pond streets. The cycle was going up High street when the operator evidently lost control and drove it into the fence. He was not injured. The fence and motorcycle were damaged slightly.

While playing on Gorham street, Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, John Simmons was struck by an automobile. He was removed to St. John's hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the leg.

PLAN BIG RECEPTION FOR PROPOSED DANCE HALL ROOSEVELT

EASTPORT, Me., July 26.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy and democratic nominee for vice president, said today that he would remain until Friday night at Campobello island, his summer home, just across the line in the province of New Brunswick. He arrived last night from Boston on the destroyer Hathfield.

Mr. Roosevelt will go to Portland for a day when he leaves his summer home. From Portland he will proceed to New York and then to Washington, where he hopes to arrive on Monday next. The nominee said he hoped to return to Maine for the fall campaign.

A committee representing residents of this city, many of whom have been acquainted with Mr. Roosevelt since his youth, visited the assistant secretary today to learn his wishes regarding a reception that is being planned in his honor.

LEGIONERS ELECT DELEGATES TODAY

Election of Lowell delegates to attend the state convention of the American Legion at Springfield on Aug. 27-28, will take place today. Polls will be opened this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Community club and balloting will continue until 8:30. Sixteen delegates will be named from the 31 nominates.

The convention is looked upon as one of great importance and it is expected that all members of the local post will be on hand to cast their ballots. A meeting of the post will also be held tonight.

Among the important matters to be taken up at the convention is the Veterans' extra compensation bill, and the measures will be explained in detail at tonight's session.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Fire apparatus was summoned to Rock street at 9:23, yesterday morning, where an automobile owned by Charles Hanson had caught fire. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

In the afternoon yesterday, at 2:29 o'clock, the firemen were summoned by telephone alarm to the Turner Centre Creamery company in Thorndike street. The fire was caused by a pulley belt creating friction against woodwork. There was no damage.

CONDITION SERIOUS

William Pratt of 43 Franklin street, struck by an automobile Saturday afternoon, is at St. John's hospital in a critical condition, suffering from a fractured skull. The hospital doctors do not expect him to live.

was but a small proportion of the population, and referred to the bringing in of players from outside the city for the reason that their presence was necessary "to get big collections."

The topic of the sermon was "The Biggest Thief in the World." The speaker first referred to two minor thieves. These two, he asserted, were the dance hall and the saloon. He thanked God that the saloon had been banished, but said that there was danger of a worse evil coming in its place if congress should legalize the sale of light beer and wine. He asserted that if there should be such authorization the intoxicating beverages would be sold at every soda fountain and soft-drink stand. The greatest thief of all, the speaker said, was the one that stole the powers of body and mind from them, and to whom they belong. Mr. Babcock will spend part of his vacation in Nova Scotia and the rest in central New York. He announced that he would be back in Lowell in time to participate in the prayer meeting service of the church Sept. 3.

The western world first knew about sugar when Indian traders brought to England a substance of amazing sweetness, which the Londoners called "Indian salt."

SATURDAY'S OUTING

WAS "BEST EVER"

Of all the good times enjoyed by the over-seas and second-hands of the Massachusetts cotton mills, by far the best was the outing held Saturday afternoon at the Martin Luther grounds, at Tyngsboro.

The party arrived about two o'clock, in private cars and the company's truck, and shortly the fun started when the married men and single men crossed bats for a "six-inning" six-inning game, filled with comedy and errors. Rogers and Lunan featuring this part of the game, and pulling the single men out ahead with a 5-3 score.

Following this, Barnes won the shot put, while Potter came in an easy winner in the fat men's race. Leith and Shields intended to win the three-legged race but got tied to a post and never even started, giving Moody and Stearns first place.

Kearney, Greenhalge, Torpy and Bowen came in for honors in the relay race. Swanson won the 100-yard dash. As a special event, Balcom and Whittier tried to settle a long standing argument as to which had the most speed, by running a race around the base paths. The argument is still unsettled.

After this frivolity, the party sat down to enjoy a clambake served by Page. Following a few short speeches and the awarding of prizes, Rogers gave an exhibition of club swinging, and the return was made in early evening.

The entire affair was in charge of an entertainment committee composed of Webster, Rogers, McKenzie, Doyle, Rostrom, Shields, Leith and President Potter.

LOWELL RECRUITING

STATION THIRD

In the report for the week ending July 22, the Lowell navy recruiting station stands third in the number of enlistments made by stations in the New England district. Seventeen men were enlisted during the past week at the station in Central street and Chief Joseph Crepeau states that that is an excellent record for the office force in this city. In third position Lowell leads 25 other stations of its district.

Frances Leonard of 79 Springfield street, Andover, was forwarded to Boston this morning as a recruit for the naval service.

is what women are called who all over this broad land make their annual collections of roots and herbs, and rely upon recipes which our pioneer mothers found dependable for different family ailments. In one of these recipes, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had its origin and so successful has it proved that there is hardly a city, town or hamlet in America where some woman who has been restored to health by its use does not reside.—Adv.

Cox Busy on His Speech

saw James W. Gerard of New York, former ambassador to Germany, who promised to campaign vigorously and told the governor that the west was a particularly favorable field.

The League of Nations and other international affairs, including Mr. Gerard's experiences in Germany, were discussed at length with Gov. Cox, and Mr. Gerard said he felt sure the governor's position on the league would be one of the strongest democratic assets.

Gov. Cox indicated today that he might take no action whatever regarding the request of P. P. Christensen, the farmer-labor party's presidential candidate, for aid in securing a pardon for Eugene V. Debs, the socialist candidate. The governor intimated that he regarded improper any suggestion by him to President Wilson in the Debs case.

Greeks Smash On

prisoner for the moral effect on the Turks.

LONDON, July 25.—The Greeks have occupied Adrianople, according to an announcement made in the Athens newspapers Saturday and forwarded to the Exchange Telegraph company.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24. (A. P.)—The Greek forces in Thrace occupied Eski-Baba, the junction point of the Constantinople and Kirk-Killise railway line, Saturday.

They pushed northward toward Kirk-Killise and westward along the railway, and northward along the highway toward Adrianople. The Turks, offering slight resistance, are fleeing toward Adrianople.

Reports received here say the Greeks were beginning a heavy offensive against Adrianople today. The pleas of Col. Jafar Tatar, the Turkish nationalist commander in Adrianople, for stubborn resistance, apparently are having little effect, the Turks being unwilling to face the Greek artillery, which is displaying good marksmanship.

The Turkish commander at Tchataldjam has telegraphed Col. Jafar Tatar saying the Turkish resistance was feeble against Greek landing parties and asking what to do when the Greeks advance eastward.

Col. Jafar Tatar has declared he will kill himself rather than surrender.

At the present rate of their advance, the Greeks will have Adrianople enveloped in a few days and probably will bombard it from several directions if resistance is offered.

K. OF C. DEFEAT THE GILLESPIE BOYS

Walter Foy's home run with one man on base in the ninth inning of Saturday afternoon's game between the K. of C. and the Gillespie Mfg. Co. broke up one of the best contests played on the South common in many a month and gave the Knights a hard-earned 7 to 5 victory over the washing machine makers.

The score stood 6-5 in the ninth with everybody set for an overtime squabble. Lynch, the first man up for the Knights, singled, but was caught off first. Toohay got on through an error and then Foy picked out a waist-high ball and sent it whizzing to the further reaches of left and center.

Scotly pitched for the winners and Smith for the Gillespies. Both men had plenty of stuff on the ball and their support was fairly error-proof. Umpire Lyons handled the indicator well.

ABBOT WORSTED NINE BEATS H. P. HOOD TEAM

The Abbot Worsted Co. nine of Grandville kept up its winning streak Saturday afternoon when it defeated the strong H. P. Hood & Sons' team of Boston, 3 to 2, at Abbot park, Grantville.

The teams were very evenly matched and fought for the game from the drop of the hat. Only six hits were made in the entire contest, resulting to the slight twisting of Welch for the winners and McWilliams for the losers. The Abbot outfit won the game in the last half of the ninth on O'Connell's home run.

PRESENTED RESOLUTIONS

Particular Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Honors Humphry O'Sullivan

Members of the Particular council of the St. Vincent de Paul society of this city formally presented to Humphrey O'Sullivan, their president, an engrossed set of resolutions commemorative of his recent elevation to the knighthood of St. Gregory the Great at impressive exercises held yesterday morning in O'Connell hall, Suffolk st. About 75 members were present to take part in the observance and to pay homage to the feast day of St. Vincent de Paul. After attending the $20 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church, of which Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., was the celebrant, and receiving communion they assembled in O'Connell hall where breakfast was served.

Following the breakfast President O'Sullivan called to order and after speaking on matters pertaining to the council by various members Secretary William H. Gallagher stepped forward and presented Mr. O'Sullivan the council's resolutions. He made an excellent address of presentation and Mr. O'Sullivan responded appreciatively.

Other speakers included James A. McMurray president of the Metropolitan council of the society in Boston, who spoke at length on the wonderful work of Frederick Ozanam, who did much to spread the teachings of St. Vincent de Paul and to found the order that today bears his name. C. J. Wise, treasurer of the Metropolitan council, and the officers of the local council.

The Lowell Particular council was founded on May 4, 1915, for the purpose of spreading the practices of Christian life, to assist the poor and to promote religious instruction and charity. Councils have also been formed in each parish in the city. The officers of the Lowell Particular council are: President, Humphrey O'Sullivan; vice president, Joseph Marconi; clerk, William H. Gallagher; treasurer, Fred H. Rourke; directors, Rev. William O'Brien, L.P.; John J. Sullivan, Maurice J. Lambert, Jr., and Fred Hocherville.

Formation of local committees to visit the men in the hospital and care for them after discharge, is urged of the 48 state chairmen who have been enlisted in the movement.

Turks Plan Big Attack on Adana

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—(By Associated Press)—Since July 4, Adana, in the southeast part of Asia Minor, has been in a state of siege. The French have brought tanks into play and hanged many agitators publicly in an effort to restore order. Railway communication has now been re-established between Adana and Mersina, about 40 miles southwest of Adana. There are rumors in Constantinople that the Turks are directing a big movement against Adana.

THAT DANCE HALL

Tomorrow evening is the time fixed for a hearing on the question of licensing a dance hall on Pawtucket boulevard near the public bath house.

From the beginning The Sun has opposed this proposition, believing that the location is unsuitable because of being on the edge of the city with few dwellings in the vicinity and perhaps only the Lowell General hospital to be annoyed by the noise and the musical jazz or jazzical music.

The hospital was located where it is, because few city noises could disturb the rest of the inmates. In the summer time especially, a great many automobiles pass to and from the boulevard, and at night when dances are usually held, drivers unacquainted with the dance hall would be liable to run down pedestrians or dancers loitering on the speedway in front of the hall.

But there are other dangers of a different character. Dancers from other cities passing the boulevard would drop into the dance hall to see what mischief they could work during their stay. Parties of this kind, or even those who belong here, could sell drink from stations in the fields in the vicinity, and it might be made a recruiting station for brothels within a radius of twenty miles of Lowell.

It may be objected that the dance hall would at all times be under the protection of the police; but such supervision deals only with overt acts. Dissolute women can go in there and dance as long as they please without molestation by the police. It may be said that these same objections can be raised with equal truth against every other dance hall in Lowell; but such is not the case. Halls within the thickly settled districts are more under the public eye than a dance hall on the boulevard could possibly be.

The general belief is that we have a sufficient number of dance halls at the present time and that if we are to have any more they should not be located at a place which at present is the favorite resort of parties who wish to escape the vigilance of the police.

Another objection is, that if a dance hall were established so close to the public bath house, many parents would refuse to allow their boys and girls to patronize the baths because of the dangerous allurements of the dance hall. In this way the clean, healthy and morally unobjectionable status of the bath house as conducted today, would be lost or destroyed, and one of our best public park features yet provided by the city of Lowell would be rendered unpopular owing to the location of an objectionable neighbor at its back door.

This is not a question to be decided solely by the people of Pawtucketville. It involves the morals and the reputation of our city and therefore concerns every family in the community.

NEW SHIPPING TARIFF

In the act of congress dealing with the merchant marine, passed a short time before congress adjourned, there is found to be a provision that would restore the old republican policy of high protection which originally banished our merchant marine from the high seas.

The new method, however, is ostensibly used to aid the present merchant marine, but it provides for a combination of ship subsidies and high tariff, two things which the American people have fought against for generations.

In the opinion of experts this policy if put in operation will bring gigantic fortunes to a few American capitalists—ship owners and protective industries. While the act purports to aid American ships in competing with foreign—a very laudable idea of course—it provides that foreign goods must be brought to our shores in American ships or else pay 10 per cent ad valorem duty.

That policy will increase the price of the goods so imported, and it will cost us the friendship of other nations which we greatly need in the commercial field.

If it is rushed that this law will cause a rush of foreign shippers to use American ships, the assumption is wholly unwarranted. Those shippers will do nothing of the kind unless in cases in which they have no ships of their own. It can be seen that a handicap of 10 per cent would go far toward shutting out the goods of such nations as wished to use their own ships. Already there has been much complaint from foreign nations on this point and it is likely that much more will be heard when those nations have recovered sufficiently from the effects of the war to engage more fully in competition for world trade.

The American ship owners will charge higher rates which may in a measure offset this 10 per cent charge to the foreign importer. He can get his goods brought here on European ships at rates much lower than the American, so that the advantage of avoiding the tariff by using American bottoms will be somewhat overcome.

The tariff protects the manufacturer, while gouging the consumer; and it is probable that this new arrangement will operate to our disadvantage in various ways rather than to our benefit. The scheme is new and it is not likely to be changed until its injurious effect shall have been proved in actual operation.

There might be imports received in that way that should pay a much higher tariff than 10 per cent but to place this flat rate on all imports alike would seem to be a very absurd proceeding.

PRES. WOOD'S POLICY

President Wood of the American Woolen Co. has severed the bond of Sincere Attachment existing between himself and his employees, through his action in shutting down the mills of the American Woolen Co. in Lawrence for an indefinite period.

Just before Pres. Wood was attacked by the government as a profiteer, he was perhaps the most popular man in the United States with his employees and not without cause. He had furnished them free life insurance, had opened stores in which they could purchase the necessities of life at prices lower than those prevailing in the open market; and he had begun to build a new town for their benefit. Those who visit Shawsheen Village will readily see the extensive and very costly plans which Pres. Wood has laid out for the upbuilding of the new town. Already a new post-office, a very fine building indeed, has been constructed in which is a village store, an assembly hall, a magnificent kitchen, suitable for large parties together with business offices for town officials. Just opposite the postoffice is a swimming pool for children, while several playgrounds are also available in the vicinity. Over a dozen new houses have been built on spacious lots, all very attractive and commodious and no two of them of the same design. The streets are wide and already grandiose sidewalks are laid. Judging from the operations now in progress a million dollars would go but a short way toward completing the work that has been begun. Pres. Wood's residence, a beautiful structure, is located on a knoll on one side of a grand estate abounding in beautiful walks and driveways, groves for picnic parties and sylvan splendors in which art and Nature have worked in harmony for charming effects.

The mill help who cheered President Wood when they found that the charge of profiteering brought against him fell flat, are beginning now to doubt the sincerity of his professed devotion to their interests. There are various opinions on this point, some favorable to Mr. Wood and some the reverse; but the mass of operatives feel the effect of four weeks' idleness and they would not murmur so bitterly if they had any certainty as to the future.

Many regard the shut down as a lockout, but there is no law to compel the company to run its mills, if it decides for reasons of its own, that they shall remain idle. Whatever may be the cause of closing the mills, their idleness has impressed upon the city of Lawrence the important part they have played in the support of a large proportion of her people.

LOWELL'S FIRE LOSS

The annual report for 1919 of the fire commissioner, that has just been issued, shows that during the period covered by the report $232,142 worth of property was burned in Lowell. If one or two single buildings in the business section should be damaged to that extent it would make quite an impression on the public mind. Scattered over a number of buildings, the loss is not so strikingly apparent.

There was a come-back to the owners of the property destroyed of $211,681. This doesn't mean by any means that the loss was within about $20,000 of being cancelled. The labor and materials that must go to replace or repair the structures damaged by fire must come from a tax on the real wealth of the community. The insurance money is simply the repayment in part of the premiums on insurance policies that are paid by property owners every year.

When we come to the causes of the fires we find that "carelessness," "careless use of matches," "children and matches" and "cigarettes" were responsible for 96 of them. Rats and matches started 13 of the blazes; smoking in bed was responsible for 15 others. Hot ashes called the fire department into action 10 times. Some of the other causes of fires, and the number ascribed to each, are given by the fire commissioner as follows: Stove smoking, 9; thawing water pipes, 6; grease on stove, 2; pan of meat, 3.

The saddest feature of the report is that four persons were burned to death in Lowell last year. Three of them were children and two of these lost their lives as a result of playing with matches.

It is not pleasant to contemplate that a large part of this loss of life and property was due to sheer carelessness, but such is the fact.

The republican Portland Express thinks that, if Brother Bryan had become the prohibition candidate for president, it might have made "positive in advance the defeat of Governor Cox and the democratic party." That is something of a compliment to the vote-getting qualities of the Nebraska commoner. But it seems to us he would do more harm to the chances of Senator Harding.

It isn't to be wondered that Mayor Thompson showed lukewarmness in considering the proposal of General John H. Sherburne, state commissioner on the necessities of life, to appoint city employees to engage in a hunt for profiteers in Lowell, since the general has had his forces engaged in a similar search in Boston for some months without conspicuous success.

The city of Northampton has appropriated $1000 to help pay for the noise and splutter of the Coolidge notification day exercises in the city. We cannot help wondering how some of the good democrats who pay taxes look upon this use of public funds to boom the cause of a republican candidate for political office.

The good wishes of many Lowell people will go with Arthur K. Whitcomb as he retires from school teaching, although for some of them mention of his name recalls poignant remembrances not unconnected with an injunction about "not sparing the rod." Mr. Whitcomb was a good schoolmaster and his retirement is a loss to the Lowell schools.

Persons searching for reasons for the high cost of living may find one in the statement that while the total annual cost of operating the railroads of the country before the war was three billion dollars, under the latest award of the national labor board four billion dollars must be paid out each year for wages.

"The voters of the country now know where Harding stands"—Lawrence Telegram.

Yes, surely. It's on the deck of a political ship, with sails trimmed to catch favoring winds from any point of the compass, with Political Expediency and Wall Street for pilots, and a course shaped for defeat in November.

It is at least interesting to contemplate that before Miss Lillie S. Cutler, the Lowell young woman who has just won a prize for leading her class at a Boston law school, finishes her practice at the bar, if she is admitted, there may be women judges to whom she can say, "Your honor, I object."

Calling Senator Harding's acceptance address "an enlightening exhibition of the high and mainly art of shadow boxing" is about the most accurate description of the republican candidate's rhetorical thimble skating feat that has yet appeared.

One of our contemporaries says "Miss Mary Brown is 'at' Cape Cod." When will she land?

SEEN AND HEARD

"Nothing is stronger than custom."

There are many "isms" in politics, but the most popular of them is bribery.

"Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today." It may cost you about $1 more.

If "a fool and his money are soon parted," the profiteer has made a fool of all Americans.

Germany has agreed to supply the allies with two million tons of coal monthly. Just another note to be renewed.

If there is any truth in the saying that women can't keep a secret, why are politicians worrying over who they will vote for?

A woman in Kansas refused to give her age and was not allowed to register. They should be informed that old age won't bar their voting.

A society in England would have people discard clothing and return to nature. All there is needed to accomplish that result with present prices is a little patience.

PERFECTED QUESTION

"I desire to be informed at this time, Mr. Chairman," says Squire Almy, Jr., of the Lowell Sun, "if the congressional investigating committee has inquired into the campaign expenses of Eugene Victor Debs, who is conducting a 'back porch' campaign for the presidency?"

WHICH WAS SOLDER

"Do you regard your recent meeting as a success?" "I do," answered the woman with this determined lip; "I was the chairman and nobody could show off and make a speech unless I chose to permit it."—Washington Star.

ALGY WAS SORE

Algy swaggered into the hotel and entered the telephone booth. He was immaculately clad and in a lordly humor.

"Halloo!" he drawled, putting the receiver to his ear. A minute passed. He repeated the summons. His lordly humor began to descend in rank.

"Halloo!" he called again. No response. He grasped the receiver with an iron grip.

"Halloo!" Still no response. His lordly humor was now gone and he shouted things in the receiver which must have made even that experienced instrument tremble.

At last, when the perspiration streamed from his burning brow and his hat was limp and both he and his language were exhausted a notice caught his eye. It read:

"Give the number you require to the clerk at the desk and wait until the connection is made."

He slunk away so quietly that no one saw him go.

LIFE IN MIDSUMMER

The common housefly (pestus diabolus) next to the man-eating tiger, is the worst foe of man. By observing the simple rules outlined in this essay, no home should be annoyed by flies. It is well to paper the walls and ceiling of rooms infested with flies with fly paper. Sometimes flies show particular preference for some one chair. In this case have the chair upholstered with fly paper. Children, bless their hearts, can help in the fly battle, too. Arm your junior exterminators with whips. In the case of children too young to handle a firearm, give them clubs. A small club, turned from hickory and weighing not more than seven and a half pounds, makes an excellent weapon. Children also can be utilized to poison flies. Give the babies a supply of white arsenic and a funnel. Instruct them to hold the flies firmly, open their mouths and pour in the arsenic. A simple and inexpensive fly trap may be made from a piece of oak. The blocks should be cut about two inches square and numbered, one and two. First catch the fly and lay him on block one. Then place block two over block one and press the two together firmly. After a half hour separate the blocks and the fly will be found to have passed over. (Send self-addressed envelope for name of manufacturer.) (Skunks are good fly catchers and tame skunk makes a useful as well as highly ornamental home pet. Since it is well known that flies are attracted by the presence of milk and sugar it is well not to use these foods in fly time. Better still—use no food whatever.)

MORE OR LESS

(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)
One man makes more and one makes less.
But what's the standard for success?
Since neither reaches happiness?

He who makes more is not content.
No matter what his cent per cent.
For "more" is more and never meant
To teach its own equivalent.

He who makes less feels more denied
And hurt in pocket and in pride
Is less and less than satisfied.

So let us labor on and bless
The labor by our willingness
To make our service our success.
And we'll be happy—more or less!

MEAT LODGING IN

WINDPIPE FATAL

William Wallace of 45 Branch street died Saturday evening as a result of a piece of meat lodging in his windpipe. When the man returned from his day's work he went to the family ice chest to obtain something to eat. A few moments later his wife, who was seated on the piazza of the home, heard the sound of choking. In the kitchen she found her husband struggling for breath. She hurried him to Lussier's drug store at the corner of Branch and Smith streets where he died shortly after arrival. Life was extinct when the ambulance arrived. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of George W. Healey.

Medical Examiner T. B. Smith later certified that death was due to suffocation.

The deceased leaves a wife, Florence A.; two children, Mrs. William Chase and Lawrence A. Wallace; a brother George; two sisters, Mrs. John Lamboy and Mrs. Edward Ellis, both of Canada.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Lowell polo fans who remember William J. Duggan, for several years a member of the Lawrence polo team, will be interested in the fact that Duggan played the role of a hero in Taunton, one afternoon last week, when he assisted in rescuing a 10-year-old boy from drowning. Duggan was at work at one of the playgrounds in Taunton, on the day in question, when his attention and that of one of the athletic instructors was called to the plight of a young lad who was going down for the third time. Neither of the rescuers had time to remove their clothing before leaping into the river, where the near-fatality was occurring. The boy was given first aid treatment and is now out of danger.

Some years ago, while an international cup race was going on, I was called into a city editor's office and told to hustle up a story about "Sailors' Superstitions." Something had turned up in the news to make such a story timely. The first place I headed for was the captain's cabin on board a Cunard liner. There I met the skipper and also a captain of police. The police official had taken a trip across the ocean from Ireland when a mere lad, but after that his longest sea voyage had been between Boston and Nantasket. He, had made a hobby, however, of becoming acquainted with the sea and things connected therewith. There are probably not a great many men living at the time who knew more about sailors and their doings than he did. I could not have struck a better source for material for a story about "Sailors' Superstitions." By sailors, it should be understood, that I mean the kind that are to be found on the deck of the Resolute and, presumably, also on the Shamrock—the kind of which there are not a great many left who sail on wind-propelled craft. It is all right to whistle on shipboard during a calm, for whistling is supposed to bring the wind. Whistling at other times, though, is strictly tabooed. It is believed to be a portent of dire disaster, possibly because the sound of a human whistle and the noise made by the wind whistling through the shrouds in a gale are similar. Another old tradition of the sea that is mixed up with sailors' superstitions is a belief in the transmigration of souls. Old sea dogs used to, and very likely do today, believe that the souls of great captains and good seamen go into the higher animals after death, while those with whom they are not friendly, become inhabitants of the bodies of monkeys and pigs. I remember seeing an old Newfoundland salt graverly shake hands with a hand-organ grinder's monkey on Atlantic avenue in Boston and salute him by the name of a deceased resident of his home town—a strange superstition, surely.

Rev. Edward S. Woodbury preached his last Sunday sermon at the Worthen Street Baptist church yesterday. He is to leave in the near future to take up the work of a pastor in Minneapolis. Tomorrow evening a reception is to be given him in the church by his parishioners. Friday evening he will address the members of his congregation for the last time.

Mr. Woodbury took for his text yesterday morning the words: "Happy is the man who findeth wisdom." He said that the choice did not exist, as was sometimes supposed, between service of God and complete license and freedom. "It is a choice of masters," he continued. "One must be either the servant of God and humanity or a servant and victim of the devil."

"In the first service," the speaker said, "there is supreme happiness and satisfaction. In the latter every joy is more than counterbalanced by pain and suffering. There are burdens to be borne in leading the Christian life, but they are God-given and God gives the strength to carry them. If we seem to face in the morning a burden that is beyond our strength to bear, we can take it up cheerfully with the assurance that we shall be stronger than we thought."

POULTRY MEN'S TROUBLES WILL BE FEATURE OF FARMERS' WEEK AT AMHERST

The vanishing poultry industry has received a good deal of attention at the hands of farm writers in Massachusetts. It will be given further attention during Farmers' week at the Agricultural college, which is being held coincident with the meetings of the Massachusetts Poultry association's summer convention in Amherst, beginning today and continuing till July 30.

Some of the problems of the poultry men, which have so abundantly increased in the last two or three years with the growing scarcity of cheap labor and the rapid rise in the price of poultry feed, will be threshed out in these meetings of practical poultry men. The commercial possibilities of poultry raising will be discussed by growers who have made a success by catering to the fancy chicken and egg markets of the consuming centres.

Fruit as a side line for poultrymen will be considered by fruit specialists. It is a line many poultry men of eastern Massachusetts have already adopted either with or instead of their hens. Modern poultry methods of fighting poultry diseases will be given a prominent place on the program. A chicken supper on Thursday night, July 29, is a feature kept exclusively for the poultrymen and their guests.

The Agricultural college is preparing to entertain a large number of poultry men of the eastern half of the state during the Farmers' week period. Its home economics department has also a program of home-making demonstrations, including a motor trip to model kitchens in the vicinity of Amherst, to which all housewives of the state are invited. The big women's day features come Friday, July 30, but problems of the home, flowers, clothes and preserves will be discussed earlier in the week. Farmers' week programs may be obtained by mail from the Extension Service, Amherst.

Cuba's exports in 1918 were twice as great in value as the combined exports of the countries between the Texas border and South America.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Now we shall have to see what had become of poor Mr. Tingaling, for, as you know, he had disappeared mysteriously from Oliver Oriole's house while Oliver was doing over the fairy-man's suit.

This is what happened. Nick and Nancy were helping Oliver to snip threads and so on, while Oliver sewed, and Mr. Tingaling (not having any clothes to wear in the meantime) was in bed having a nap in the spare room, and Mrs. Oriole was making plans in the kitchen—when all at once an extra big breeze came along and gave the Oriole apartment in Maple-Tree Flats such a swing that Tingaling woke up with a start.

He didn't know just where he was, waking so quickly 'n all, and he blinked his eyes and jumped out of bed and rushed for the spare room door to see where the earthquake was coming.

On and on to the front door and stepped outside before he saw exactly what he was doing.

Oliver Oriole's nest-apartment, I mean—was at the end of a very slim branch, even slim for a fairy to tread on, a thin fairy and Tingaling was a fat one, and one had to watch like anything not to slip when he was going to or from Oliver's dwelling place.

Before Tingaling could say "Boo," down he went sprawling to the soft ground below. He wasn't hurt much, but he was in his nightgown!

Enough Pledges to Ratify Suffrage

MAURICE AND HIS DANCING PARTNER, LEONORA HUGHES, GIVE DANCE DEMONSTRATIONS

ON WITH THE DANCE

Maurice Tells What Dances Are Worth While

BY MAURICE
(World's Most Famous Ballroom Dancer)

LONDON, England, July 26.—There are four dances that are worth while in a ballroom. They are the fox-trot, the one-step, the waltz and the tango. The first three are especially adapted for American and English people.

The great advantage of the fox-trot, one-step and waltz is their simplicity and their grace when they are properly done. Their great merit is that they are easily taught and easily learned. They are dances of three or four steps which everyone can do and which result in a general symmetry of movement.

Oppose Simplicity

Do you know who it is that is opposed to simplicity in these dances? It is the same person who is responsible for many of the ugly fashions in present-day dancing. It is the person who brought in the high kick, the "bunny-hug," the shimmy-shake and all the other endless foolish gyrations and contortions, each given a name as foolish as the thing it indicates. Beautiful dancing can never be brought about this way. It may develop acrobats and contortionists, but not dancers. What are people aiming at who are teaching these freak things? Do they imagine there is something risqué in the fox-trot and the one-step? Is that why they are trying always to introduce something more elaborate and intricate in form? If so, I could easily convince an unprejudiced jury that a minuet or a schottische could be made to hear an undesirable interpretation.

My own thought is that the constant introduction of freak things in dancing is due to a certain kind of dancing teacher who thinks he can make more money if he continually has some "new steps" that his pupils simply must learn. If that is the idea, it is absolutely unfair. Why should a girl or boy of modest means, who has spent money to learn current dancing, have to pay a good deal more to keep abreast of unnecessary, unexpected and unlovely innovations? What we need is not these senseless changes, but improvement and above all standardization of ballroom dancing, together with elimination of certain faults and peculiarities.

Adopt Resolutions

It may interest my American friends to know that I advocated this program recently at a great meeting of English dancing teachers. If I may say so without undue egotism, one of the results of my talk and of my dance demonstrations with Miss Leonora Hughes was the adoption of two resolutions. Under the one, the teachers present agreed to do their best to stamp out freak steps in the ballroom, particularly dips and steps in which the feet are raised high off the ground, and also sidesteps and pauses which interfere with the progress of couples who may be following. The other resolution provided for a committee whose task it should be to consider what should be recognized as the standard steps in the various ballroom dances.

If placed on the United States, Cuba would stretch, tip to tip, from New York to Chicago.

TURKS TO SIGN AT SEVRES

City 4 Miles From Versailles, Chosen After Long Search for Place

Signing Will Take Place in Magnificent Building of Famous Porcelain Factory

PARIS, July 26.—Sevres, four miles northwest of Versailles, was chosen for the signing of the Turkish peace treaty after a long search for a place which would give the treaty a sufficiently dignified and historical name, thereby being already treated named Versailles, St. Germain, Paris, Grand Trianon and Fontainebleau. There remained La Malmalson and the presidential summer residence at Rambouillet. Fontainebleau was considered for a time, but it had been overlooked that there already was a treaty of Fontainebleau which fixed the status of Napoleon and his family after his abdication.

The choice finally was reduced to La Malmalson and Rambouillet, both of which were discarded in favor of Sevres, which is more accessible to Paris.

Signing of the treaty, it is understood, will actually take place in a magnificent building of the famous national porcelain manufactory.

Diplomatic Ratification

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24. (By Associated Press).—Since the departure of Turkey's peace delegates for Paris, with instructions to sign the treaty, the means of ratification have been eagerly discussed in Constantinople. Under the Turkish constitution, the chamber of deputies must ratify treaties. That is impossible under the present circumstances, as a majority of the chamber is composed of nationalists, many of whom are in Ankara. There is no legal way for the sultan to convoke another chamber.

Probe Plot to Defraud Disabled Soldiers

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The District of Columbia grand jury today took up investigation of an alleged conspiracy of certain employees of the War Risk Insurance bureau to defraud disabled service men and their dependents of compensation legally due. Officials of the treasury secret service were prepared to lay before the grand jury evidence they had obtained concerning the reported conspiracy by which, it has been stated, scores if not hundreds of veterans of the world war were defrauded of considerable sums of money. Ten persons already have been arrested and it was indicated by secret service operatives today, that additional arrests might result from the revelations before the grand jury.

Cars Withdrawn, Jitneys do Big Business

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 26.—Trolleys did not operate on lines of the Connecticut Co., here today, the company having withdrawn all service last midnight. This fulfilled a warning that, unless the city restricted motor bus competition, car service would cease indefinitely. To accommodate the thousands of factory operatives, motor buses and other service vehicles went on regularly assigned routes on streets and to and from outlying sections, under direction of an organization of the owners of such vehicles. Meantime a special municipal commission began an inquiry into the jitney-trolley situation. To assist the local bus men many vehicles came here from New Haven and other cities.

200 Disabled Soldiers Strike

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 26.—Two hundred out of 218 disabled soldiers undergoing treatment at the home sanitarium here for tuberculosis contracted while in service, are on strike against the United States public health service. This action was taken upon receipt here of an order from the New York office of the health service directing that all disabled men be transferred to service sanitariums in other sections of the country. The soldiers have formed an organization to combat the proposed move.

ALLIED MISSION REACHES WARSAW

WARSAW, July 26.—(By Associated Press).—Nineteen members of the special British and French missions sent here to look into Poland's military situation and to confer with the government authorities arrived in Warsaw early today.

Vast crowds who had been reading the newspaper accounts of the allied negotiations in Poland's behalf assembled and showed that they entertained great hopes on the outcome of the deliberations of the missions. One of the first questions placed before the missions was that of the disposition of war materials for Poland, which have just arrived at the port of Danzig and which the working men there are refusing to unload in order to prevent Poland getting them. The dock laborers and soviet emissaries in Danzig are distributing anti-Polish propaganda.

BELFAST RIOTS AND LOOTING

Orangemen Drive 2000 Catholics From Shipyards and Loot Stores

Riots to Avenge Death of Smyth—Looting Stores of Catholics

The subjoined story of the fighting in Belfast, Ire., is from the New York World of Saturday, sent by Anna Dosch-Fleuret, one of its staff writers:

BELFAST, July 23.—Kashmir road is a little street of low brick houses in a neighborhood inhabited by a mixed Orange and Catholic population. Two avenues lead to it—Falls road, which is a thoroughfare through a solid Catholic section, and Shankill road, paralleling it several hundred yards to the east through an equally solid Orange section.

It is only one of many doubtful streets in a section of the city of alternate Orange and Catholic blocks, but it is a hot point in the war of sectionalism into which Belfast has been thrown by the attempt of the Orangemen to drive the Catholics from the shipyards. Sniping, with four deaths and a score of two wounded in this street alone, occurred during last night.

During the evening I approached Kashmir road from both sides. The Falls road section in general is quiet with the regular policemen patrolling. Sinn Fein flags are flying. The bulk of the Catholic population is peaceful but nervous. Falls road is full of curious folk, many evidently Catholics scattered through them doing the work of the police were many young men of the type belonging to the Irish Volunteers, who are maintaining order and warning the passersby not to loiter. At Springfield road they formed a line across Falls road, warning every one that soldiers had machine guns trained on the corner.

Try to Avoid Riots

While I was there, half a dozen rifle shots were heard and the crowd began to run. The volunteers told them to run until they got home. I gathered that the volunteers are acting under orders from Sinn Fein headquarters, trying to avoid a continuation of the riots. The Sinn Fein sees that rioting here is playing into Carson's hand, who is able to lay all the blame on the Catholics.

Kashmir road I approached through silent streets with knots of people in the doorways, with a little knot of people at the further end, and portable entanglements before the barricaded soldiers. Revolver shots occasionally were answered by a short rattle of machine guns, all in obscurity. A man in the distance tottered and fell, and was dragged into a doorway. I saw no looting so far, but crossing toward the Shankill road section in a few minutes I was in a locality where small spirit and grocery shops were being looted in many side streets, and with no interference.

On the main thoroughfare of Shankill road the Orangemen are wearing their regalia and walking about. The Union Jack is also flying. The police and soldiers are at home and the atmosphere is that of a party carrying on a successful campaign. There is street corner talk between the soldiers and the Orangemen about the enemy, meaning their Catholic neighbors. The soldiers are frankly on the Orange side. Here it is possible to go into a delectable ground, as the soldiers are turning all the other way.

Looting Openly Done

There is looting of groceries and spirit shops under the eyes of the soldiers. At one place a crowd of looters were so eager the soldiers made them form lines. "Don't shove, there is plenty inside for everybody. Wait your turn!" called the soldiers, and the looting progressed in an orderly manner. Of course it was a Catholic called by the crowd a Sinn Fein-shop in the Orange district, so it was fair game. The soldiers were powerless to make an arrest if they desired, and the police remained away.

Continuance of trouble is likely, as an indeterminate number, between 5000 and 10,000 Catholics, dare not return to work in the shipyards and factories. The Shankill road shipyard contingent regularly cross the city in a formidable body as a silent warning. No such Catholic body would dare assemble, and the rioting is bound to continue, but it is all one sided. The police and military are on the side of the Orangemen, whom they consider loyal, and against the Catholic nationalists, whom they call Sinn Fein. They are taking vengeance here for the soldiers and police killed in other parts of Ireland.

There are gangs of looters who are simply looters, being neither orange nor green. They are called Sinn Fein, though most of the shops looted are owned by Catholics. In Newtownards road the police gave so little protection that looters cleaned out many shops. One shoe store was cleaned out in less than ten minutes. There are few arrests considering the amount of looting.

Carson Advocates Extermination. The following is also from the New York World, but from a different writer:

LONDON, July 23.—All the press agrees that never was such a hopeless feeling left by any Irish debate as that of last night. As Carson declared, the government has ceased to exist throughout three-fourths of Ireland, his prescription for its restoration being an exterminatory campaign against its opponents.

Labor Leader J. H. Thomas, who is not trusted in Ireland, declared Premier Lloyd George would "discuss" any proposal for a settlement of the Irish question short of a republic. This is an entirely meaningless offer, for the Irishmen are firmly convinced that Lloyd George's only object is to break up the present movement, as he did the constitutional movement, by drawing its representatives into negotiations ending in nothing but their discredit. The only chance of knocking out the Sinn Fein is by actually passing a Dominion home rule measure, and offering it to Ireland. But Carson will never allow Premier Lloyd George to do that even if he wished, and he warned him last night that if he goes beyond the bill now in course of passage, Carson would vote against him. That would mean Lloyd George's defeat.

That is no doubt in the view of all classes of Irishmen that the revolution there will continue to increase in violence. Commander in Chief Macdonell, who is now in London, is ready in Lethbridgeport to condemn the wrecking of that town by the police as a measure of reprisal for the murder of two of his comrades. This is taken as a formal license to the police and military to repeat that practice whenever they feel like it. As a matter of fact, not a single policeman or soldier has been reprimanded, much less punished, for any excess committed, even as in Bantry where the former deliberately murdered perfectly innocent people in their beds. Macdonell's letter is the best proof of the helplessly desperate frame of mind of the British executive and its acceptance of anarchic principles. Whereas the Belfast "Loyalists" begin the disturbances the guns of the military are always turned against the Sinn Feiners.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place this morning at St. Mary's church, Collinsville, when Mr. Godfrey F. Herkemer and Miss Elizabeth S. Pennamann were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. M. Gilbride. The bride wore white georgette with picture hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Mildred B. McNamara, was attired in pink organdie with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. The best man was Mr. Mark Keefe. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Wilen, 1132 Macdonough road. The happy couple, who were recipients of numerous wedding gifts, left later on a honeymoon trip to the White mountains and upon their return in the latter part of August they will be at home to their friends at 43 Ottawa street.

BROADWAY SOCIAL CLUB CARNIVAL AT KASINO

All roads will lead to the Kasino on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The popular Broadway Social club will conduct a carnival for the benefit of their Christmas tree fund. Everybody in Lowell is well acquainted with their good deeds in the past to the poor and needy of Lowell. It is their desire to make this year's Christmas tree the finest ever held in Lowell. So they decided to hold this three-day carnival. Mr. William Walsh, president of the club, has appointed a committee of 100 members, headed by Mr. Patrick Owens as chairman, to make all necessary arrangements for this big monster carnival. The first step taken by the committee was to set a price admission in reach of every one. The price set was 10 cents admission and one cent "war tax," so everybody knowing the reason for this carnival, namely, the benefit of Christmas tree, would make an extra effort to attend. The committee has worked night and day to make this affair a success. The attractions secured are as follows: Balloon, dance every night, a beautiful walking doll, free as a prize, this doll is something new and original. Exhibition dancing every night by some of New England's best dancing artists. These artists' names will appear later. They were discovered by Mr. Duggan, considered New England's best. The committee tried to get Mr. Duggan but he was engaged elsewhere so he recommended this couple. The cabaret singers engaged will be a credit to the carnival. They will sing all new songs every night. In addition to the other listed attractions, every night will be featured by something special. On Thursday, the opening night, there will be a carnival parade in which souvenirs, hats, horns and noisemakers of every description will be given away free. On Friday night the mayor and municipal government have been invited to attend. Friday night is also Lawrence and Nashua night. Friends of the Broadway club are invited from those cities to attend. Saturday night final drawing of grand prizes. All prizes given away free. First prize a ton of coal, second prize 100 lbs. sugar, third prize barrel of flour, fourth prize bushel of potatoes. Everybody upon entering the Kasino will get a ticket free with the above listed articles and an opportunity to win these prizes. If you attend the carnival the three nights you get three chances free. General dancing will be held every night free of charge for those who desire to dance.

May Compete in Races

and a thrash to windward home was indicated.

Early Activity on Sloops

All hands aboard the cup sloops felt the inspiration that a smart sailing wind brings and there was an early activity above and below decks, getting canvas covers off the mainmalls and sending headrails up in stops. The crews receive a bonus for each racing start, and get an added bonus for every winning contest. The Americans declare that Resolute will be returned winner today, and that Sir Thomas Lipton will fail to win the cup.

Charles E. Nicholson, designer of Shamrock, said today that he had learned much about wind and wave conditions that obtain about the America's cup course that would be invaluable to him in the designing of sloops for racing in these waters.

Would Continue Yacht Races

Mr. Nicholson still insists that the present races have been little more than trial cases for Shamrock. He thinks that in all future America's cup races, the contenders should be manned entirely by crews from the public they represent. Resolute's crew is said to be made up largely of Scandinavian sailors.

Suggestion has been made that should Sir Thomas Lipton fail to win today's race and lose the cup, that the Irish baronet enter the challenger in a series of races with Resolute and Vanitie along Long Island sound for cups offered by local yacht clubs.

Think Vanitie Fastest Boat

It has also been suggested that all three yachts be sailed by professional skippers. The contest would give the sloops a further test of speed and sailing qualities. Some members of the New York Yacht club are said to be of the opinion that Vanitie which failed of selection for the

13 WANT TO BE GOVERNOR

New York Republican Leaders Meet to Select Standard Bearer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 26.—Thirteen candidates for the republican nomination for governor were due here today to await the decision of the party leaders on the eve of tomorrow's unofficial state convention as to who shall be the standard bearer in the fall campaign.

They are: John Lord O'Brien of Buffalo, Elton A. Hooker of New York, Congressman Bertrand A. Enell of Potsdam, former Mayor Walter S. Stone of Syracuse, Judge Cuthbert Pound of Lockport, State Superintendent of Insurance Jesse S. Phillips, Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, Speaker of the Assembly Thaddeus C. Sweet, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, State Senator Henry M. Sage of Albany, State Senator George P. Thompson of Middleport, Supreme Court Justice Wesley C. Howard of Troy and former Judge Nathan D. Miller of the court of appeals.

Contrary to republican precedent since the enactment of the direct primary law, tomorrow's convention is expected to designate a state ticket as well as adopt a party platform. Several of the candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, including Secretary Hugo, Judge Howard, Senator Thompson and Mr. Hooker, question the advisability of such a program, and are reported to be determined to enter the fall primaries of September 1 regardless of the convention's action.

David Jayne Hill of Rochester, the temporary chairman, will deliver the keynote speech. The resolutions committee will be headed by Senator Sage.

honor of defending the cup, is the fastest of the cup yachts.

Race Costs Lipton $1,000,000

Sir Thomas is said to have spent approximately $1,000,000 in his latest attempt to lift the cup, and yachting experts assert that Shamrock IV, in the interest of yacht designing, should have further tests in competition with Resolute and other sloops of American design. As a member of the New York Yacht club, Sir Thomas can enter Shamrock in the club's races.

Shamrock, after getting up her mainsail, took a tow at 9.35, and headed from Amherst channel lightship. Resolute meanwhile had got her big cloth up, ready to drop her mooring buoy.

As the morning wore on, the wind began to haul into the east and Shamrock, after rounding the Sandy Hook spit, dropped her tow and headed for Coney Island.

Jersey weather sharps figured that the wind might get into the southward by noon, the time set for the start, which would give the yachts a boat to windward and a run home.

Prospects Not So Bright

After testing the wind off Sandy Hook point, in order to determine what topsails to carry, Captain Burton signalled for a low again. The wind was probably not more than seven or eight knots in strength from the east at this time, and prospects for a fast race were not so bright.

Resolute dropped her moorings at 10.15, and sailed away toward the point. A tugboat steamed along awaiting a call for a tow. Resolute took a tow and both yachts sent aloft big club topsails, as they moved out toward the starting line.

SUPERVISORS FOR STREET PLAYGROUNDS

The League of Catholic Women, through its president, Miss Alice T. Lee, assured William N. Goodell, president of the Lowell chamber of commerce, that the league would appoint within a few days a number of young women to act as assistant supervisors on the playground which has been established in Charles street and which is in operation five evenings a week.

Miss Lee has a list of available teachers ready and will make her selections and assignments immediately. The Charles street playground is being financed by the league in co-operation with the park department while the Middlesex Women's club is looking after the supervisors for the Howard street playground.

WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

Clifford Loop, Veteran of World War, Killed When Auto Hit Wall

Clifford Loop, son of Herbert E. Loop of Dunstable and a veteran of the world war, was instantly killed when the automobile which he was driving crashed against a stone wall in Dunstable, about 7.30, Saturday evening.

Loop was a chauffeur for Harold Keene of Dunstable and at the time of the accident was returning from Lowell where he had taken his employer. At the place where the accident occurred, there is a sharp curve and it is presumed that Loop lost control of the machine while attempting to make the turn. His body was found by a party of automobile buffs lying 15 feet ahead of the machine, which was wrecked.

The Dunstable man was 21 years old and had made an enviable record during the war as an automobile driver.

Alleged Pickpocket in Court

Louis Georgekakos, charged with the larceny of lumber from a new building at the corner of Suffolk and Market streets, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10. Officer Joseph L. Lamoureux arrested the defendant as he was leaving the building about 4 o'clock yesterday morning with a bundle of floor boards over his shoulder. The proprietors of the property stated in court that they had caught Georgekakos stealing lumber before.

Held For Trial

Louis Lariche, arrested by Officer Noye about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, pleaded guilty to drunkenness but was held for trial on July 31. Lariche was in a machine which was parked without lights on Westford street near Howard street at the time mentioned. When the officer went to investigate as to why there were no lights on the machine he found Lariche at the wheel and two other men in the car. The court stated this morning that the mere fact that the defendant was seated at the wheel was sufficient to warrant a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. When approached by the officer the other two occupants of the car made their escape. The automobile is the property of Lariche's brother, but the defendant claims that two strange fellows took the auto from the garage and met him on the street and took him in. He claims that he does not know the other men. The case was continued for further investigation.

Other Offenders

James McGlaughlin just out of the house of correction four weeks, was sent back this morning upon entering a plea of guilty to drunkenness. The defendant made an ardent plea for another chance, but the court refused and imposed a sentence of three months.

Michael Burke, an old offender, for drunkenness was let down with a $15 fine upon a promise that he would return to work.

PLAN CHILDREN'S PICNIC

On next Saturday about 100 to 150 children of the Fayette street playground district will enjoy a picnic in Chelmsford Centre under the auspices of the Girls' Community club and the immediate direction of Miss Sadie Melancon. The committee in charge of picnic plans to take different playground sections of the city at a time and to provide outings and picnics for the children. The picnic next Saturday will be in a pine grove in Chelmsford where games and races and other sports will be enjoyed. The trip to and from the grounds will be made in large trucks to be loaned by one of the large corporations of the city.

HIS JAW FRACTURED

Demand Poles Disarm Completely

VIENNA, July 24.—(By the Associated Press)—It is reported in apparently reliable quarters here that the first stipulation the Bolsheviks will require of the Poles before entering into peace negotiations will be that the Poles disarm completely, so that the negotiations might not be used to gain time or to await the arrival of French or British reinforcements. A wireless message from the soviet command to General Pilsudski, president of Poland and head of the Polish army, intercepted here, asks the name of the sector where soviet representatives may meet the Poles to arrange armistice preliminaries.
